

Senate Kills Albany Probe By 33 to 17 Vote; Assembly Passes Relief Control Bill

Nine Republicans Join All Democrats in Defeating Resolution; Wicks Gives Talk

Relief: 80 to 64

Assembly Favors Relief Measure by Straight Party Vote

Albany, May 19 (Special)—The state Senate this afternoon defeated the Conway resolution calling for legislative investigation of Albany county. The resolution was lost by a vote of 17 to 33.

Debate on the resolution was brief. Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Republican of Kingston, in asking for the passage of the resolution declared "for years it has been common gossip that Albany county has been under political domination."

The Senate vote, in which nine Republicans joined with all Democrats in the House at the time in opposing the move, definitely blasted hopes of individual county leaders who forced a vote despite repeatedly unfavorable polls. It previously was approved by the Assembly.

Common Gossip

Senator Wicks declared that it also has been common gossip that there is corrupt political alliance in Albany and pointed out that at the last general election Thomas E. Dewey had made charges against Albany county which had not as yet been refuted.

The senator further said "The Republican party stands pledged to an investigation in Albany county in the eyes of the people of the state as well as neighboring states."

Sensor Wicks said that assessments in Albany are increased "if you don't vote the right ticket." Discussing the grand jury in Albany county which he contended is padded he said "it is so disgusting you haven't a chance for your life."

In closing the senator said that "decency demanded that this resolution pass."

The only opposing speaker was Senator Joseph D. Nunan of Queens county who said that it was ridiculous to appropriate $250,000 for such an investigation. He also said the only reason the resolution was in the senate was because Lehman received more votes than Mr. Dewey at the last election.

Assembly Republicans, by a straight party vote of 80 to 64, today passed a measure to place all direction and administration of unemployment relief in the hands of the communities.

The Senate approved at the same time a measure which, furthering the proposed policy of local control of relief, would permit New York city to reimpose all existing emergency taxes to finance it, including a two per cent sales levy.

Simultaneously the Senate passed unanimously and then considered, with approval expected later, a measure which would further the proposed policy of local control of relief by permitting New York city to reimpose existing emergency taxes, including a two per cent sales levy, to finance it.

The bill was tabled temporarily, it was explained, because all senators "who might wish to vote on it were not in the chamber."

The measure also authorizes reenactment of the city's temporary one per cent tax on gross income of utilities, a so-called "conduit" levy, and imposes on personal property and business turnover.

Short debate preceded assembly action on the general relief measure introduced by Republican Leader Irving M. Ives, who alone spoke in favor of the bill, then sought and obtained a vote.

Previously Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut had talked briefly in opposition, declaring "where the state makes a contribution of 40 per cent of the cost it certainly should have its say about spending the money."

Infection Blamed

Physicians Say Brawl Did Not Cause Palmer's Death in Florida

Sarasota, Fla., May 19 (AP)—Peace Justice Franklin Redd, Jr., summoned a coroner's jury today and declared it would have "no alternative" than to accept findings of physicians that "an overwhelming streptococcal infection" killed Potter D'Orsay Palmer, four times married heir to a Chicago fortune.

Palmer died in a Sarasota hospital Monday, four days after he was struck during an altercation at a stag picnic near Bradenton. Redd reported Dr. David R. Kennedy, Palmer's physician, and Dr. Herbert R. Mills, Tampa pathologist, had agreed Palmer's death was not due to violence.

New Program Calls For Billions to Be Spent and Loaned

Most of Treasury's Huge Stabilization Fund to Be Released; Plan Is Tentative

Washington, May 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt, discussing reports that a new spending-lending program was being studied in some administrative quarters, expressed emphatic opposition today to using any part of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to finance aids to business.

Questions regarding the reports were raised at the President's press conference. He said he had never heard that a new spending-lending plan was under consideration.

Would Use Fund

Washington, May 19 (AP)—Administration forces were reported authoritatively today to be drafting a new spending-lending program involving billions in federal funds.

The program has not yet taken definite form, it was learned, but is being put in shape for submission to President Roosevelt and possible transmission to congress.

As tentatively outlined, it would include: Release of $1,500,000,000 of the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and use of the money to finance a nationwide home building program.

Establishment of new federal machinery for loans to business, with emphasis on advances to small firms.

Liberalization of social security benefits, with discussion centering on old-age pensions of $40 monthly for single persons and $60 monthly for married persons.

Government insurance of loans for utility construction.

Reduction of the 5 per cent interest rate on construction loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

Government purchase of new railroad equipment and its rental to the carriers.

Among those working on the program, it was reported, are Senators Wagner (D., N. Y.) and Pepper (D., Fla.), Chairman Mariner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board, and Leon Henderson, newly-appointed member of the securities commission.

Well-informed persons said that the tentative program might be substantially changed before it is presented to the White House, and that government insurance of utility loans and the purchase of railroad equipment might be omitted. They added, however, that some new government effort to stimulate business was extremely likely to emerge before congress adjourns.

Jail Over-Crowded

Syracuse, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—So many penniless hitch-hikers bound for the New York World's Fair have been arrested there as vagrants that the Onondaga county penitentiary is facing a serious over-crowding problem. More than 200 vagrants now are confined in the penitentiary. Supt. Herbert H. Paddock said, and "the majority of these were headed for the World's Fair in hope of employment." "If this eastward movement keeps up," Paddock said, "it looks to me as though we'll have them sleeping in the corridors."

New Alarm System Operation Begins In City Yesterday

New Numbers Are in Force at Sahler's, on Strand at Two Stations; Will Use New Zoning

Three of the new fire alarm boxes that are to replace 55 of the old type fire boxes have been installed and were placed in operation on Thursday afternoon by the Kingston fire department.

The three boxes and the call numbers are: Bx 4211 at Sahler's Sanitarium, 2141, Broadway and Strand. Box 2331, Strand and Ferry street.

The two new boxes installed downtown replace the two old boxes numbered 25 and 24.

New Boxes Daily

It is planned to install several new fire boxes daily until the entire number of new boxes are positioned and in operation.

Kingston's Gamewell fire alarm system, which was first installed in 1896, is now being entirely modernized.

At the time the system was first installed there was no partially paid fire department as at present, but the city had an all-volunteer system. The late William H. Kolts was chief of the volunteer fire department, and the late Henry E. Wieber was mayor when the system was first installed.

The zoning system will be used when the present system is modernized and each fire box will be a 4-number instead of a 2-number box as at present.

Will Indicate Zone

For instance, if a box is numbered 4343, the first number will indicate the zone in which the box is located; the second the district; the third the group and the fourth will be the box number.

The number of fire boxes will not be increased under the new system being installed but under the zone system adopted it will be possible to add additional boxes from time to time without confusion to the system.

The fire alarm wires will also be placed in underground ducts.

Operator Burned At Salon Fire

Miss Josephine Renzo Is Hurt as Flames Burst From Storeroom

Miss Josephine Renzo, an operator in the Charles Beauty Salon at 306 Wall street, was burned about the face, head and arm, but not seriously, in a fire of undetermined origin that damaged the office and storeroom of the salon about 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The fire department is making an investigation as to the origin of the fire, which is said to have started in the storeroom.

Two patrons, whose names were not made public, fled when the fire broke out.

At the time of the fire Miss Renzo and three other operators were in the salon when the noise of a breaking bottle caused Miss Renzo to open the door of the storeroom to investigate. As she did so flames shot out of the open door, causing her burns.

The storeroom was filled with bottles and jugs of lotions of a high alcoholic content. As the flames heated the bottles and jugs in the room they began to burst and the fire spread to the office, burning through the partitions between the storeroom and the office.

The fire threw off considerable smoke, causing damage to the salon and in the P. J. Jennings apartments on the third floor. The salon was located on the second floor of the building.

A line of hose was run into the building by the firemen. The building, a three-story brick structure, is owned by the INS Realty Company. On the ground floor is the Kinney shoe store, where damage from water was slight as the firemen used the salvage covers to protect the merchandise.

Sawdust also was used on the floor of the beauty parlor to absorb the water used in quelling the fire.

The beauty salon is operated by Charles J. Marabella who returned from Poughkeepsie just as the fire trucks pulled up in front of the building.

This was the first fire in the Wall street business district in some time and caused considerable excitement, and the street, between John and North Front streets, was blocked with fire trucks for about an hour.

It was announced last night by Mr. Marabella that the salon would reopen for business this morning.

Playground Group Announced to Aid In Summer Work

Only 4 New Supervisors Are Added to List of Those to Carry Out Season's Program

The names of 18 young people, approved by the local recreation commission to supervise the summer programs in nine of the city's parks and playgrounds, were announced today by Sidney Lutzin, local superintendent of recreation.

A number of the group are college graduates and a few are to be graduated in June while some of those named are still undergraduates at various schools.

The list with the exception of four who have assisted in the winter program, but who will be new in taking charge of the summer activities, is virtually the same as that of last year.

New Directors

The four new directors named are: Thomas Maines, of Syracuse University; George Ritenbary, American University; William Israel, graduate of New Paltz Normal; and Albert Tyler, who attends New Paltz Normal.

Others of the group who have served in the parks before, and who are graduates of colleges, are: Jeanne Ward, Cortland Normal School; Florence Knecht, New Paltz Normal; Lester Linsley, Springfield College; David Kline, New York University, and Anne Knecht, New Paltz Normal.

Those to be graduated this June are: Helen Ross, Evelyn Winfield, and George Geisler, all of New Paltz Normal.

The group still attending college includes: Roger Salzman, Springfield College; Edward Safford, Springfield College; Jean DuBois, Cortland Normal; Evelyn Olivet, New York State Teachers College; Kathleen Cullen, College of St. Rose; Adrian Cubberly, Bard College.

Two directors will be assigned to each of the nine parks to supervise the separate recreation programs and two of the group, David Kline and Anne Knecht, have been designated to make the rounds of the parks and playgrounds. Young Tyler will be in charge of special activities and Miss Knecht will direct the dancing programs.

All but one of the directors have had experience in local recreational work and a number of them have been working since the inauguration of the present playground set-up.

A formal opening program is scheduled for Hasbrouck Park on June 23 when a community night performance will be given, and the playgrounds will open officially for supervised play June 26.

The playgrounds to be under supervision of the directors are: Hasbrouck, Barmans, Loughran, Forsyth, Cornell, Block, Fulton, High School and Clearwater. The latter, in Wilbur, will open this summer for the first time. Directors have not been assigned to Lawton Park, since the use of this is devoted mainly to picnic grounds.

Entertainment which forms one of the most important features of every day at the fair, will be provided by Ulster county entertainers at the New York state amphitheatre. Under the guidance of Walter R. Clark of Milton and Carl Eric Linden of Woodstock the entertainment program is going forward.

Seven Numbers

At present the entertainment program will include at least seven numbers. Prominent among the numbers will be a program of dance under the direction of

Nazis Will Have to Show No Future Intention of Use of Force in Relations in Europe

U. S. Minister to Canada Presents His Credentials to King

(By The Associated Press)

British Prime Minister Chamberlain today offered Germany a long-term peace policy—including consideration of Nazi colonial aspirations—if Germany would show convincingly that she had no "intention of aggression or the further use of force" in her relations with other countries.

The prime minister spoke in a House of Commons foreign affairs debate as Jewish demonstrations in Palestine against his government's new Holy Land policy caused one death and 114 injuries and while Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco made his triumphant entry into Madrid with a conqueror's fanfare.

A fleet of special trains brought to the city Ottawa's largest crowds today to greet their British majesties on parade in this capital of Canada, the largest dominion of their realm.

First Formal Phase

It was the most formal phase of the trans-Canada tour and state ritual was prescribed for every moment until King George and Queen Elizabeth depart Sunday.

To the United States Minister, Daniel C. Roper, was accorded a unique honor on the program today—presentation of his credentials to the king, the first time a foreign envoy to the dominion has been able to do so. (Customarily they are presented to the governor general.)

Long before the royal train of blue and silver with its glistening stainless steel engine arrived for the third major stop of the tour, school children and government employes on holiday, housewives, farmers and neighboring villagers started lining the streets. Many came from the United States.

Chamberlain made his offer in reply to attacks on British foreign policy by David Lloyd George, war time minister, and Laborite opposition leader Clement R. Attlee but warned that Britain was "not prepared to buy peace with concessions which would only lead to further demands."

The fire broke off considerable smoke, causing damage to the salon and in the P. J. Jennings apartments on the third floor. The salon was located on the second floor of the building.

A line of hose was run into the building by the firemen. The building, a three-story brick structure, is owned by the INS Realty Company. On the ground floor is the Kinney shoe store, where damage from water was slight as the firemen used the salvage covers to protect the merchandise.

Sawdust also was used on the floor of the beauty parlor to absorb the water used in quelling the fire.

'Gimme That Gun, Young Man!'

Marching up and down the line of Kentucky National Guardsmen which barred union pickets from approaching closer to a mine near Harlan, Ky., was this middle-aged woman who kept shouting, "Gimme that gun, young man!" But the young man wouldn't gimme. Shooting but no loss of life was reported as non-union workers manned some mines in the area.

Annual May Day Rites Held at High School

More Than 250 Students Take Part; Miss June Crandall Is Crowned Festival Queen

A beautiful May Day, almost a cloudless sky and only a suggestion of a cooling wind greeted participants in the annual K. H. S. May Day exercises held this morning in the rear of the high school. A large crowd of interested people swarmed all sides of the field long before the martial strains of the school band announced the beginning of the festivities.

The theme for the program was based on "Typical K. H. S. Periods" and included more than 250 members of the student bodies of Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School. The state procession was led by two banner men in white with large maroon colored K's on their sweaters bearing the Kingston High School banner. They were followed by the performers dressed in costume and ready to do their acts in honor of the day.

Cole Prime Minister
William Cole, president of the senior class, in the role of the Prime Minister and robed in academic gown, led the court entrance and immediate attendants upon the queen. The ladies, in waiting, dressed in green, lavender, and pink Grecian robes which have become traditional with the May Day carried pink roses and wore white Grecian sandals. These six maidens, chosen by popular vote by the student body were Marjorie Delaney, Marian DuBois, Frances Dobie, June Houst, Gwendolyn Kershaw and Virginia Luedtke.

Completing the picture of scholastic beauty was June Crandall, smiling in anticipation of the coronation that would give her the accession over the annual festival. Her immediate escort was composed of two tiny train bearers wearing white Kate Greenaway frocks and a pillow bearer carrying the crown of pink roses, dressed in white satin. The queen carried red roses. Her maid of honor was Agnes Cafaro who was also dressed in blue Grecian costume of the other ladies-in-waiting and carried tall-man roses.

Prime Minister's Speech
"Friends and Classmates—I bid you welcome to the 23rd annual May Day festival of Kingston High School."

"You have brought with you the best of weather and we will try to repay you with the best in entertainment. But wait, loyal subjects, we must have a queen to reign over this day of royal activity, and who may I ask is better qualified than Miss Crandall?"

Playground Group Announced to Aid In Summer Work

Only 4 New Supervisors Are Added to List of Those to Carry Out Season's Program

The names of 18 young people, approved by the local recreation commission to supervise the summer programs in nine of the city's parks and playgrounds, were announced today by Sidney Lutun, local superintendent of recreation.

A number of the group are college graduates and a few are to be graduated in June while some of those named are still undergraduates at various schools.

The list with the exception of four who have assisted in the winter program, but who will be, now in taking charge of the summer activities, is virtually the same as that of last year.

New Directors
The four new directors named are: Thomas Maines, of Syracuse University; George Rutenberg, American University; William Israel, graduate of New Paltz Normal; and Albert Tyler, who attends New Paltz Normal.

Others of the group who have served in the parks before, and who are graduates of colleges, are: Jeanne Ward, Corland Normal School; Florence Kneisch, New Paltz Normal; Lester Linsley, Springfield College; David Kline, New York University; and Anne Kneisch, New Paltz Normal.

Those to be graduated this June are: Helen Ross, Evelyn Winfield, and George Geisler, all of New Paltz Normal.

The group still attending college includes: Roger Salzman, Springfield College; Edward Salford, Springfield College; Jean DuBois, Corland Normal; Evelyn Olivet, New York State Teachers College; Kathleen Cullen, College of St. Rose; Adrian Cubbyen, Bard College.

Two directors will be assigned to each of the nine parks to supervise the separate recreation programs and two of the group, David Kline and Anne Kneisch, have been designated to make the rounds of the parks and playgrounds. Young Tyler will be in charge of special activities and Miss Kneisch will direct the dancing programs.

All but one of the directors have had experience in local recreational work and a number of them have been working since the inauguration of the present playground set-up.

A formal opening program is scheduled for Hasbrouck Park on June 23 when a community night performance will be given, and the playgrounds will open officially for supervised play June 26.

The playgrounds to be under supervision of the directors are: Hasbrouck, Barmann, Loughran, Forsyth, Cornell, Block, Lutton, High School and Clearwater. The latter, in Wilbur, will open this summer for the first time. Directors have not been assigned to Lawton Park, since the use of this is devoted mainly to picnic groups.

Plans for Ulster Day at Fair Now Shaping Rapidly

Clark and Lindin Busy Developing Entertainment Program of at Least Seven Good Numbers

Plans for the observance of Ulster County and Kingston Day at the New York World's Fair Monday, June 26, are now entering the formative stage and from now on will develop rapidly.

Already the committees have made many definite arrangements designed to give Ulster county visitors at the fair on June 26 a real treat and to publicize to the World Fair visitors the desirability of paying Ulster county a visit.

Entertainment which forms one of the most important features of every day at the fair, will be provided by Ulster county entertainers at the New York state amphitheatre. Under the guidance of Walter R. Clark of Milton and Carl Eric Linden of Woodstock the entertainment program is going forward.

Seven Numbers
At present the entertainment program will include at least seven numbers. Prominent among the numbers will be a program of dance under the direction of

Charge to Pastor
The Rev. Mr. McIntosh in his charge to the pastor said that the world has many problems, but the congregation has not called the pastor to have him solve them. Social evil exists but the pastor is not called to solve the problem. The pastor is not called as an educational expert.

Charge to the People
The charge to the congregation was delivered by the Rev. Mr. McVey, who has been serving the church as moderator while the pulpit was vacant. He said that he had come to know in some measure the problems that confronted the church. He knew the former pastor, the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., he said, and he had also known the late Dr. Charles G. Ellis, who had served the church for 30 years as pastor. "You are now beginning again,"

Church Holds Its Installation Rite For New Minister

The Rev. D. L. Doherty Is 11th Pastor to Assume Charge of Rondout Presbyterians

With the simple but impressive service of the Presbyterian Church the Rev. D. Linton Doherty was installed Thursday evening as pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church by the Presbytery of the North River in the church on Wurts street. The Rev. Mr. Doherty is the 11th pastor to serve the church since it was organized 106 years ago.

The Rev. Arthur James moderator of the North River Presbytery and pastor of the Smithfield Presbyterian Church in America, presided and asked the constitutional questions of the pastor and congregation. The installation sermon was delivered by the Rev. William Hawthorne, pastor of the Oakwood Avenue Presbyterian Church in Troy.

The charge to the pastor was delivered by the Rev. Claude McIntosh, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Marlborough, while the charge to the congregation was made by the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

"The Master's Plea"
Taking as his topic "The Master's Plea," the Rev. Mr. Hawthorne, who is a brother-in-law of the Rev. Mr. Doherty, preached a scholarly and impressive sermon. He said that there was a mistaken idea that only those living in poverty possessed a passport to the skies, and that the man with worldly possessions was denied admission.

The Master's plea was not the possessions first but the man. It is not necessary to be devoid of worldly goods to enter Heaven; what God sought was the soul of man. Christianity stands for the best in man, and the goal of the Savior is that man shall give himself unreservedly to God.

Big Pork Supply
American consumers to Have Biggest Supply Since 1934 Drouth

Washington, May 19 (U)—American consumers will have the largest supply of pork and hog products at their disposal this summer since the 1934 drouth caused a sharp reduction in livestock production.

Agriculture department officials said today that consumers should be able to buy such meat products at the lowest prices in nearly five years.

Supplies of beef, on the other hand, are expected to be smaller than last year unless a severe drouth develops in the midwest and far west to reduce feed supplies and cause more cattle to be shipped to market.

Infection Blamed

Physicians Say Brawl Did Not Cause Palmer's Death in Florida

Sarasota, Fla., May 19 (U)—Peace Justice Franklin Redd, Jr., summoned a coroner's jury today and declared it would have "no alternative" than to accept finding of physicians that "an overwhelming streptococcal infection" killed Potter D'Orsay Palmer, four times married here to a Chicago fortune.

Palmer died in a Sarasota hospital Monday, four days after he was struck during an altercation at a stag picnic near Bradenton.

Redd reported Dr. David R. Kennedy, Palmer's physician, and Dr. Herbert R. Mills, Tampa pathologist, had agreed Palmer's death was not due to violence.

Shock Clears Mind of Insane

New Method Effects Cures As Patients Re-enact Their Deliriums.

BEACON, N. Y.—The "lost world" in which the insane dwell is no longer a mystery.

It is brought into full view by a new "shock" treatment which hits the emotions only, and is announced in Sociometry, a journal of impersonal relations. This new kind of shock is curing insanity.

Furthermore, for probably the first time in mental records, the emotional shock enables the insane to reproduce at will, in detail, the fantastic appearance of the real world as it looks to insane eyes.

The shock is induced if mental patients re-enact, in lucid moments, the experiences of their delirium. These sensations have been one of the closed doors of insanity, truly forgotten from the very moment of recovery.

Akin to Sugar Shock.

The ideas that led to penetration of this barrier came partly from a study of another form of shock for the insane, the so-called sugar shock and camphor shock, the former caused by excessive doses of insulin, the latter by a form of camphor known as metrazol.

About four years ago Dr. Manfred Sakel, young Viennese physician, astonished the medical world by giving mental patients overdoses of insulin. Insulin has no known connection with insanity. But if Dr. Sakel continued the insulin until the insane were in a coma and near death many woke up with clearing minds.

The clearing was not instantaneous, but was rapid. This was tested all over the world. A few lives were lost, but many mental hospitals adopted the sugar shock treatment. Later followed camphor shock, with similar good results.

Become 'Actors.'

But the shock patients did not always stay cured. Psychiatrists found it was a great help if the restored person could be made to understand exactly what had been wrong in his mind, what the fantasies had been.

Not a clue to this state was available from shock treatment itself. Dr. J. L. Moreno, nationally known psychiatrist, who maintains a private theater for spontaneous dramatic productions by mental patients, reasoned a milder emotional shock might help clear a disordered mind.

At the same time, as the patient would remain fully conscious, the physician might get the much sought clues to the nature of the delusions.

It would be an emotional shock, he knew, for a person temporarily lucid to go to the stage and try to re-enact what he had been doing and thinking while "out of his mind." Mental patients have an aversion to this.

These persons were not, however requested to act. For at first they had no recollection of what they had thought. But they were asked to put their bodies in the positions as during the insane attacks. Memories then began to return.

"The first acts," Dr. Moreno says, "were of usually short duration. Gradually the patient got control of roles he played during an insane attack."

Boneless Fish Caught; Scientists Are Amazed

EAST LONDON, SOUTH AFRICA.—A fish caught 40 fathoms beneath the sea here should have been dead 50,000,000 years ago.

It belonged to the species Crossopterygii, which scientists had believed extinct.

Of a brilliant steel-blue color, the fish was 5 feet long and weighed 127 pounds. It had no bones, but a cartilage—a hard but pliant substance—and its fins and scales were of the primitive type.

Apparently its ancestors were common 100,000,000 years ago—the golden age for the Crossopterygii. But what one of the species is doing alive today is a riddle for the scientists to solve.

I'm not taking a chance on getting there too late—I want to see all the new and interesting May time and Summer-time items in store for me, and to check those that I'll need. There's a page of values so I know I'll have a complete selection of strictly quality merchandise to choose from...

Don't Pass this BUY!

The model illustrated is the Buick Special model 41 four-door touring sedan $990 delivered at Flint, Mich.

WHAT we're concerned about is simply this: Lest you admire the size and swiftness and smartness of this trim Buick—and mistakenly decide it's a car you can't afford.

Lest you figure, since it's an eight and an eight of a hundred-and-then-some horsepower, it might cost more to run than you'd like to pay.

Lest you listen to all you hear about its wondrous comfort, and the smoothness of its Buicoid ride—and class it as luxury beyond your reach.

All of which, of course, is wrong!

This is an eight—a valve-in-head straight-eight—but it's also a Dynaflex eight, and it gets more good out of every drop of gasoline.

Mileage figures that owners report to us even beat some of the sixes!

And it's certainly a luxurious carriage to ride in—not only in size and comfort but in the completeness of its equipment. Every model has two horns, two sun-visors, two windshield wipers, plenty of ash receivers, an automatic electric lighter—not to mention automatic choke, Handishift transmission and the Flash-Way direction signal.

Even so—the list prices still run less than a year ago—less than some sixes—and probably considerably less than you think!

We'd hate to have you miss out on a whale of a lot of fun simply because you didn't have the whole story. So—since your Buick dealer doesn't know how to reach you—why don't you call on him?

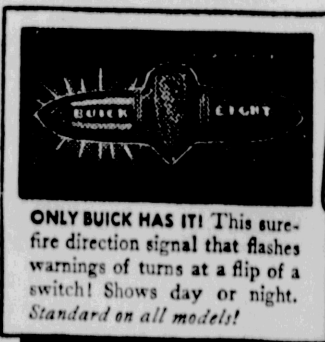

Don't worry about his pressing you to buy!

When you see how little this honey costs—and how much it does for that little—you'll be pressing him to hurry delivery!

Strikes During Holdup

PHILADELPHIA.—Declaring, "I'm not going to have anything to do with this," a bandit pulled a mask from his face and deserted his companion—also masked—in the midst of a holdup of Daniel Belinsky's grocery store. His companion proceeded with the holdup and escaped with $32.

Don't Pass this BUY!

The model illustrated is the Buick Special model 41 four-door touring sedan $990 delivered at Flint, Mich.*

WHAT we're concerned about is simply this: Lest you admire the size and swiftness and smartness of this trim Buick—and mistakenly decide it's a car you can't afford.

Lest you figure, since it's an eight and an eight of a hundred-and-some-horsepower, it might cost more to run than you'd like to pay.

Lest you listen to all you hear about its wondrous comfort, and the smoothness of its BuicOil ride—and class it as luxury beyond your reach.

All of which, of course, is wrong!

This is an eight—a valve-in-head straight-

eight—but it's also a Dynaflex eight, and it gets more good out of every drop of gasoline.

Mileage figures that owners report to us even beat some of the sixes!

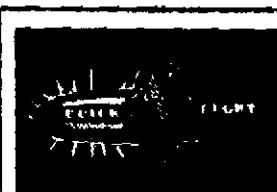

And it's certainly a luxurious carriage to ride in—not only in size and comfort but in the completeness of its equipment. Every model has two horns, two sun-visors, two windshield wipers, plenty of ash receivers, an automatic electric lighter—not to mention automatic choke, Handishift transmission and the Flash-Way direction signal.

Even so—the list prices still run less than a year ago—less than some sixes—and probably considerably less than you think!

We'd hate to have you miss out on a whale of a lot of fun simply because you didn't have the whole story. So—since your Buick dealer doesn't know how to reach you—why don't you call on him?

Don't worry about his pressing you to buy! When you see how little this honey costs—and how much it does for that little—you'll be pressing him to hurry delivery!

HARSH ALIEN LAWS

While the public centers its attention on foreign affairs, or on today's baseball games, a batch of bills concerning non-citizens has got into the congressional hopper. These bills threaten not only foreigners but native citizens. The public ought to ask a number of questions about these bills and express its opinion of the more drastic ones.

As described in the New York Times, some of the bills threaten aliens with deportation if they advocate any change in government, even by peaceful methods, or internment camps if their original governments will not receive them. Others would deny them relief, however needy they may be; require them to register and be fingerprinted; arrest them without warrant and send them out of the country on the slightest pretext, including failure to apply for citizenship within one year of their arrival here. One measure would prohibit all immigration and one would deport all aliens, without discrimination.

Considering that all of us must be either immigrants or descendants of immigrants, it is plain that the alien problem has been with us from the beginning. It would be a good plan to consider today's special problems thoughtfully, without prejudice, and to work out solutions designed to preserve the basic American freedoms, not wreck them.

TELEPHONE TALK

A feature of telephone company exhibits at various fairs of recent years has been the free long distance call. The person who wins it may call anyone anywhere in the country and talk for three minutes, but he has an embarrassing audience of strangers with receivers at their ears.

Observers have been much amused, and even moved to cynicism, by the complete unimportance of the conversations conducted by winners of the prize calls. There is nearly always a good deal of inquiring about how everybody is at both ends of the wire, with a ludicrous repetition of the word "Fine." Often the telephoner takes some of his precious time to say he has only another minute to talk, or to make routine comments about the weather. "So long's" or "Good-bys" usually fly back and forth more than once before the connection is broken. The talk of radio amateurs is usually about as trivial.

It's all very silly. Or is it? There is pleasure in hearing a loved voice, unexpectedly, from a great distance, even if the voice doesn't utter some profound comment on life or art or science. One may doubt that Einstein, suddenly confronted with the chance to talk briefly to a fellow-scientist across the continent, would really launch into a dissertation on his work, past or to come.

Brides seem to want their wedding-gown pictures to make them look about a quarter of a mile high. But it's all right—they'll never feel that tall again.

The business merger system is now being carried into international affairs, and every first-class nation has a string of subsidiary nations.

NESTING BIRDS

Pleasant variants from the usual spring stories about our feathered friends come from La Crosse, Wis., and Hinsdale, Ill. At a coal company in the former town men have been loading their trucks by hand and shovel because robins built a nest in the coal yard's automatic conveyor. The men expect to continue loading by hand until the young birds have left the nest.

In the Illinois community, killdeer nested on the baseball diamond of the school playground. The boys have called off their games for the time being and have put up signs all around warning others to stay at a safe distance until the eggs have hatched. They're getting in some fine nature study.

Men and boys are supposed to be cruel creatures to whom efficiency or sport would be far more important than nesting birds. These two stories, and the others which an interested person no doubt could collect almost anywhere, prove the existence of tender hearts and sympathy which ignore personal inconvenience.

Does this mean that it's the best of all possible worlds, after all, full of nothing but kindness and consideration for others, unblemished by violence, stupidity and ignorance? Hardly. It is a human world, both good and bad. It needs both sentiment about baby birds and sense about the society in which we live.

HITLER'S HELL WEEK

Hitler, says H. R. Knickerbocker, will permit "an uneasy peace" for a few months, possibly until autumn. He will be giving out alarms at intervals, trying to crack the nerve of his adversaries.

This sounds reasonable, because it is so characteristic of the Hitler method. But it has one advantage for the rest of the world. If other nations know that he is merely trying to break down their morale, they can dig in and take it.

Fraternity initiations, which seem to outsiders sometimes so cruel, are usually taken by the candidates with humor and equanimity. The freshmen understand that the object is to try their nerve. So they take the tests on the chin, grin and get away with the situation.

Hitler appears as adolescent as any sophomore. But the rest of the world now seems to have the upper hand. The cooperative nations can hold out better than the nationalistic ones. They have more power and more materials. If they can just keep their heads, knowing this, and wait for Hitler himself to crack, the uneasy peace need not develop into war, and may in time be replaced by a more stable and settled peace in which life may once more go forward.

Women may be less subject than men to war propaganda, as a psychologist might say, but look how they fall for Them Hats.

"Are the democracies really getting stronger, or just feeling stronger?" asks a reader. It amounts to the same thing.

Good idea—Jim Farley going around the country "to sell some stamps." He may yet pay off the national debt that way.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

MEAT OR VEGETABLES

I watched two men exercising in a gymnasium and was struck with their excellent muscular development.

Noticing my interest, the instructor smiled and said he got a great "kick" out of hearing them argue about food. One was a vegetarian and the other ate meat three times a day. While friends in every way as they played on various teams together, they could not agree on the merits of meat or vegetables.

I told the vegetarian that he was really a meat-eater because he ate eggs and I told the meat-eater that he was a vegetarian because the beef he ate was really the grass the cow had eaten.

What about meat or vegetables as the best food for man?

I have spoken before of one of the university exhibits at the Hall of Science, Chicago's Century of Progress. This particular exhibit showed the intestine of a cow, of a dog, and of a man. The length of the intestine in a cow is nearly thirty times the length of the cow's body. It has to be this long because the food the cow eats is bulky and it takes a long time for the intestine to take the nourishment from this bulky food. "Such animals have even developed four-pouched stomachs and cud-chewing to absorb the nourishment from this food."

The intestine of the cat or the dog, meat-eating animals, is only three to four times the length of its body; meat is a rich concentrated food and is easily absorbed through the walls of the intestine into the blood.

What about the intestine in man? The length of the intestine in man is about seven times the length of his body (not including head and legs).

I believe the above facts make it plain that as man's intestine is not as long as the cow's and not as short as that of the cat or dog, he should eat both meat and vegetables as at present.

Some of the foods which replace meat in certain countries—rice, soy beans, and others—are rich in protein, the body building and repair factor in meat.

As Prof. J. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, has pointed out, all that the average individual needs to do to get an all-around, suitable diet is to add some raw vegetables or fruits daily to the regular meat, bread, and potato diet.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

What About Government Bonds?

Babson Says Bankers Are Financing Public Spending
New York City, May 19.—One of the toughest jobs in the financial world today is the protection of money and property. The yield on money is lower than ever and the risks and taxes greater than ever. Consequently, bankers and investors are scared to death. They do not know what to do. They feel that whatever move they make will be wrong. They have never been so hard pressed before—not even in the abyss of the depression.

The only securities which now meet with favor here on Wall street are government bonds. Capital has been retreating into these issues for the past five years. Because the five year notes are tax-free, they meet with an artificial demand. From one end of the earth to the other, United States Government bonds are considered the strongest investments that can be bought. A number of factors have boosted these bonds to the highest price level in history so that certain issues yield less than one per cent.

Why "Governments" are Favored

These government bonds are particularly favored by managers of institutional and trust funds. Such people believe their primary job is to maintain the principal of the funds committed to their care. Income is a secondary consideration with them. Whereas 10 years ago a conservative investment fund might yield five per cent, today it yields but two or three per cent. Bankers prefer United States "Governments" because they are exchangeable into dollar bills at any time. A bank's only obligation is to pay depositors "dollars" regardless of what the purchasing power of these dollars will be. Trustees, too, are buying "Governments" because they feel the price of these bonds will hold up.

I seriously question the action of both trustees and bankers on two grounds. First, I believe that interest rates will eventually advance. Either a business boom or a war would increase money rates and shove down the high price of "Governments." Even if the price did hold up, the purchasing power of their income and principal would decline. Buying government bonds, therefore, may be as risky business today as was the buying of common stocks in 1928—except for those who want ready funds with which to meet death taxes.

Registration Would Be Embarrassing

The second reason why I question the purchase of government bonds is the financial status of the United States Government. If these bonds had to be registered with the Securities Exchange Commission in the same way that private bonds must be, I doubt if many could be marketed. Such a registration statement would have to show that the U. S. Government has not even earned operating expenses for 10 years. What corporation could get bankers to pay a premium for its two per cent bonds if it had only earned half of its operating expenses for eight consecutive years?

Yet, good corporation bonds can be bought to yield four per cent. These are obligations of well-run companies manufacturing or merchandising useful products. Ultimately, the future of government bonds depends upon the making of money by these private companies. Interest on government bonds is paid out of taxes. Corporation income taxes are the most lucrative form of taxes. These are not collected until the interest on corporation bonds is paid. Hence, no corporation profits—no taxes. Therefore, from

Reputation or Inflation

Bankers and trustees must realize that federal debt can be reduced only in two ways: By outright repudiation (which means simply cancelling the debt) or inflation (which has the same effect in a round-about way). Because they are buying government bonds, however, these bankers and trustees feel that when repudiation or inflation ultimately comes the public will not blame them.

Despite their hatred of the administration's financial policies (and I suppose no group hates the New Deal more) these bankers and trustees do not have the guts to refuse to buy government bonds and put a stop to the whole miserable mess. Some of them tell me, "You can't definitely say that we will have inflation or repudiation. Mr. Babson. It is not yet clear that we will." Well, perhaps not. It is not yet clear that Christmas is coming again, either. I ask these men, "How can current public debts ever be paid off?"

National Tax Strike?

Some answer, "They do not have to be paid off so long as they do not get any bigger." My retort is that public debts will continue to multiply unless public spending is slashed or taxes boosted. Can federal spending, for instance, ever be reduced 50 per cent? Anyone who thinks it can be cut should just review the history of the present session of Congress. It was widely advertised as an economy session. A week ago the Senate passed the largest farm appropriation bill in history by a vote of 61 to 14! Taxes can be increased easier than spending can be reduced. However, if taxes are pushed much higher I fear a national sit-down strike of taxpayers!

Meanwhile, the lazy public goes on voting for the Pied Pipers who got us into this jam. If the spending fund of these public vultures could be cut off by those who still control the country's capital markets we would take our first step on the long comeback trail. Our bankers and trustees are not only jeopardizing the interest of their own depositors and beneficiaries but they are putting an artificially high price on government bonds. The smaller investor, less well-informed, buys "Governments" because he thinks their high price means stability and safety. Yes, every time I visit New York City I feel a great need for bankers and trustees with character and courage!

Farley's Statement Indicates Democratic Chieftains Will Support Roosevelt If He Desires Third Term

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 19.—Postmaster General Farley has cleared up the 1940 situation so far as it relates to the Democratic presidential nomination. He has not said so explicitly, but his statement in Arizona that it was futile to talk of his own candidacy for President until President Roosevelt had declared himself as to a third term was tantamount to an announcement that, if Mr. Roosevelt wants to be renominated, the Democratic chieftains will support him in that desire.

It was in some respects the only statement the chairman of the Democratic national committee present post. New Dealers here could make and remain in his about who have feared that Mr. Farley cherished ambitions for the presidency and was touring the country to advance his own political fortunes have hinted that he ought to give up the chairmanship. Mr. Farley counters with the most loyal kind of doctrine, something to which the most ardent New Dealer cannot possibly object.

It is not simply astute strategy, however, which prompts the postmaster general to put himself on the shelf, so to speak, till Mr. Roosevelt announces his plans for 1940, but common sense. Clearly, if Mr. Roosevelt wants to run on his own record, who in the party could deny him the chance merely on the third term issue? Every Democrat knows that tradition or unwritten interpretations of the Constitution have been thrust aside by the New Deal exponents as hardly a safe guide in troublous times of national emergency, and hence there is nothing about the third term tradition which could possibly be objectionable, for instance, to those Democrats, including Mr. Farley, by the way, who stood staunchly by the President when the latter wanted to add six justices to the Supreme Court because of a dislike of the decisions of a majority of the members of the then existing Supreme Court.

Also, what position would it leave any candidate who wanted to be the beneficiary of the Roosevelt strength if he allowed himself to be quoted as against a third term for president? Mr. Farley's strategy naturally must be to defend the Roosevelt administration as beyond reproach, and the moment he does that he must concede that, whenever the man who is the administration makes up his mind to ask for a third term to fulfill his program, there can be no convincing objection offered by a loyal party leader against such a decision.

It will be noted that Mr. Farley said pointedly that he was not making any suggestions to the other possible candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. Let them butt their heads against the third term tradition openly or otherwise and let them become known as anti-Roosevelt candidates, and then, Mr. Farley opines, these candidates will discover the nomination has been made impossible for them. It needs only to be recalled that the age-old two-thirds rule has been abolished now in Democratic conventions through the Roosevelt-Farley influence, and hence it takes 51 per cent of the delegates to block a nomination instead of 34 per cent as used to be the case. Mr. Roosevelt and his followers can block a nomination easily.

Mr. Farley has served the President faithfully. If Mr. Roosevelt does not intend to run, the postmaster general wants presidential support. The stories that Vice President Garner and Postmaster General Farley are allied would not seem to be logical though it is not improbable that they have some sort of understanding. Mr. Garner for some time past has been represented as not altogether in agreement with Roosevelt policies and as inclined to be a bit more conservative than Mr. Roosevelt. It is not known what Mr. Farley's views are on vital public questions, but it is a safe bet he would be regarded as the New Dealers; indeed, they are in the habit of linking him to the independent conservative Democrats.

It has been contended in these dispatches that Mr. Roosevelt has sufficient strength in his own party to get a third term nomination. Now he has even the members of his personal or official family, know his plans, and to this might be added that the President probably doesn't know them himself. He does know that in politics it is most unwise to make any commitments for too long a time in advance, and there is no urgent reason why he should say anything or do anything till 1940 arrives. Maybe in January, 1940, he will make known his feelings, or maybe he will say nothing at all and leave it to the Democratic party to decide whether it wants the strongest vote-getter in the party today or somebody else who can't get as many votes.

If the Democratic party situation next year is very murky, the "draft Roosevelt" idea will tend to become stronger, on the theory that he alone can stand on the record made and defend it most vigorously. Meantime, the presidential candidacies of the other Democrats must suffer, which perhaps causes Mr. Roosevelt to lose no sleep anyway.

Another New Marigold Wins Contest Award

The ambitious marigold family continues to surprise the plant breeders by its ability to improve. Its latest member to be decorated for merit is called Marigold Early Sunshine, which won a bronze medal in the All America trials of new varieties for 1939.

It is not many years since giant double flowered marigolds resembled rubber sponges, so regular and monotonous were their petals. The improved types developed in recent years have followed two general types—one resembling the carnation, the other the chrysanthemum. Early Sunshine is a double chrysanthemum flowered variety, bearing large flowers of pale yellow on plants two feet tall. It is an early strain of Dixie Sunshine, a variety introduced several years ago which blossomed so late it was useless in northern gardens. Early Sunshine flowers much earlier.

Marigolds are not the "marigold" of Shakespeare; they are native American flowers introduced much later than Shakespeare's time; but are among the very best performers in American summer weather. Seeds are rather large and soft and likely to rot in cold soil, so it is best to start them outdoors only after the soil is fairly warm and danger of frost over. They have the greatest vigor and continue to bear flowers throughout the summer, until killing frosts cut them down.

There are so many marigolds, it is possible to find varieties to fill almost any garden role, where yellow orange, or a maroon color is wanted. One of the most useful for border massing is one of the oldest varieties, Tagetes signnata pumila, sometimes called the Mexican marigold. This is a variety of compact growth, bearing single flowers of bright yellow, so profusely it makes a veritable shower of gold.

Many of the new marigolds have a faint fragrance in their flowers; others have discarded the typical marigold odor which comes from the leaves and is objectionable to some. The largest variety now obtainable sometimes bears flowers seven inches across. And this year hybrids are available which bear large flowers having the maroon coloring that was formerly found only in the smaller flowering French type.

The marigold may be considered a must for the garden program, whether one wishes cut flowers or landscape effect. It is one of the most dependable of all flowers for almost any kind of weather or description of soil.

CHAIRMAN FORESEES EXPANSION

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board of General Motors, leans low to catch a neighbor's words during testimony before the monopoly committee in Washington recently. In his testimony Sloan predicted that the automobile industry would continue to expand as national income increased but he indicated strongly that such expansion would furnish little opportunity for investment of the nation's present hoard of idle savings and capital.

All cucumbers will climb if they are permitted to do so. In a small vegetable plot, cucumbers, tomatoes, peas, beans and melons can be grown on the fence.

Hardy annuals may be sown as soon as the soil is prepared, regardless of the temperature. The seedlings will withstand frost, and the seed usually germinate better in cool weather.

Saccaman Wins Insurance Case

The five actions brought by Joseph F. Saccaman, as administrator, etc., against The Prudential Insurance Company of America, tried Thursday morning in Supreme Court, resulted in a verdict for plaintiff in all five cases. The jury returned a verdict early in the afternoon for "the full amount sued for."

Plaintiff sought to recover $564.00 on five small policies which had been written against Mrs. Saccaman, who died a few months after the policies were written. It was held by the defendant that her physical condition was not good when the policies were written and that her condition was known at the time and was contrary to the statement of good health which was incorporated in the policies.

Testimony was very brief. The policies were offered by plaintiff and the plaintiff rested. There was medical testimony on behalf of the defendant and evidence was offered to show the cause of death. Various stipulations were placed on the record and the case closed. Each side took 10 minutes to sum up the cases and the charge consequently was short.

The verdict was arrived at before 3 o'clock. Chris J. Flanagan and William A. Kaercher appeared for the plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for the company.

No cases were ready for trial Thursday afternoon and jurors were excused until Monday morning at 11 o'clock and court recessed until that time.

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Sealiff.

Yesterday: After the dance, there is even more restraint between Tally and Jocelyn.

Chapter 17

A Party

NOLA suggested: "Let's throw a huge party tonight. Impromptu affairs are always more fun. Let's get on the telephones and call everyone we know in Santa Barbara."

"But—" Thorn began.

"Silence!" Nola commanded. "I want a party. If you insist, I'll be the hostess and assume full charge; but a party I'm going to have and that's that!"

"All right," Thorn assented. "Suit you, Lyn?"

"All right by me. The servants will have a fit, though."

"Then order caterers from town," Nola said.

Thorn flushed. "We really can't afford the extra expense. You see, so far we've been living on our stock dividends. Grandmother left us forty thousand in secure stocks and bonds, but even good dividends from that amount is no fortune. We're far from being rich, Nola."

"Oh, I didn't know, of course." A constrained silence gripped all of them for a few minutes. Finally Nola asserted: "I've just about completed negotiations for giving away ten million dollars to the government toward re-education."

"Why—that's a splendid idea," Thorn exclaimed. "However did you arrive at it?"

"Oh, with the help of a lawyer friend."

Jocelyn felt sure she meant Tally and hoped, for Thorn's peace of mind, Nola would never divulge the lawyer's identity.

"Anyhow," Nola went on, "the point is this—if I can give the government ten million, I guess I can give my hosts and their friends a party."

Thorn's eyes, appealing and miserable, met Jocelyn's.

"You'll do no such a thing," Jocelyn declared. "You're our guest. Besides, I haven't played hostess for a long time. Our servants will make out very well. Come on, all of you, and get busy on the telephones! Be sure and offer midnight swimming."

People literally swarmed over the right division of Sealiff that evening. Both the piano and the radio were going full blast; the drawing room was crowded with dancers; the swimming pool splashed with swimmers; the terrace echoed with the shouts and laughter of couples playing children's games and deriving hilarious fun from them. Jocelyn, thinking it was such a very nice party, was puzzled when, a little past midnight, Humphreys told her Tally was on the porch asking for her.

"Tell him to come in," she advised.

"He says will you please come out on the porch, Miss Jocelyn, for he is not dressed for a party."

Making an excuse to her dancing partner, Jocelyn found Tally leaning against a stone balustrade. He was attired in his working clothes; his hair tousled and tumbling over his forehead.

"Hello—did you want to see me?"

"Yes," his voice was brusque. "I don't like to spoil your fun but none of us can sleep with so much noise going on. Betsy has nearly driven Mother crazy, and I have to be up at sunrise."

Unwanted Guest

"Oh—I didn't realize. I'm really sorry," she said sincerely. "I'll turn down the radio and feed everyone. That usually quiets them. I'm sure we won't give you any more trouble."

"Thank you. I'll try to get some sleep. Good night."

Before she could say anything further he had disappeared into the shadows around the corner of the house. For a few minutes she remained where she was, her thoughts strangely depressing. Then, with a shrug, she went back into the drawing-room, crossed to the radio and turned it lower.

Going into the kitchen she gave orders for serving the buffet supper on the great oak table in the dining-room.

When she returned to the party another guest had arrived; an unwanted and unbidden guest; old Talbot Mack.

Already some prankster had ensconced him in a comfortably cushioned chair and had collected a group of listeners who encouraged him to relate his more colorful adventures on the "Seventy Seas."

Gramp, spying Jocelyn, hesitated. A wistful expression crept into his discerning old eyes. "I hope you don't mind me coming into your party this way, Jocie," he apologized. "I heard laughin' and music and it seemed like I just couldn't stay away—it's been so durned long since I went a-par-tyin'—"

Bob Russell crossed the room with swift strides and laid a reassuring hand on the old man's stooped shoulders. "Of course she doesn't mind," he asserted. "We're glad to have you, Gramp."

The circle closed in again, shutting out Jocelyn. She hurried to the terrace to round up her guests for supper, refraining from mentioning the old man's presence to Geoff. Then, when the guests, talking and laughing, filed into the house, Nola saw Gramp and called a delighted greeting. Jocelyn noted his relief and pleasure at seeing Nola, who immediately perched on the arm of a chair and affectionately ruffled his hair and teased him about marrying an Irish barmaid.

For the next hour, busy with her guests, Jocelyn did not permit herself to think of anything but her duty as hostess. She reminded Thorn, when he frowned an objection to Gramp, that this party was for Nola and if Nola wanted the old man it was their duty to be tactful.

However, old Talbot Mack, with the assistance of willing cupbearers, soon became comically intoxicated. Struggling to his feet he danced for them, awkwardly shuffling his worn house-slippers. Then he sang ballads in his high, cracked voice; ballads both dolorous and lifting. The more he performed the more he was urged on, until great drops of perspiration came out on his forehead and rolled down the deep creases of his face.

Thorn, fidgeted with annoyance. Geoff fretted the exasperation. Jocelyn thought, "They're making a fool of him—it's awful!"

With abrupt decision she went through the lower hall to the communicating door which led into the Mack's domain. Turning the lock, she went through and marched up the broad stairway, her eyes flashing with indignation.

Not knowing which room was Tally's, she stopped in the center of the upper hallway and softly called his name. A few seconds later a door opposite opened and a pair of sleepy eyes blinked at her.

Known Quantity

"TALLY," she implored, "please come down and get your grandfather. He—they're making sport of him. It—it's cruel. Please come and take him away and keep him out of—"

"Your parlor!" Tally finished. "Which reminds me. I did promise you we would stay out of your parlor, didn't I?"

"Yes—but that isn't why I came."

"Isn't it? I don't see why you bother to pretend an interest in Gramp's welfare when the truth is you're ashamed of him."

Jocelyn bit her lip. "Very well. If that is your opinion we'll let it go. Just get him out and keep him out."

She fled down the stairs feeling fearful at his unjust accusation; for it was unjust, she assured herself. Tally and his family had done nothing but annoy and humiliate her since the day of their arrival.

Tally had thwarted her every move. He was horrid and mean and egotistical! He had kissed her in order to humiliate her. He had no doubt laughed many times over the way she had capitulated that night at the club dance. Well, he could just laugh out of the other side of his mouth, for he was nothing to her but a necessary nuisance that had to be borne until the day she married Geoffrey.

Tally, putting in an appearance ten minutes later, was dressed in well-fitting white flannel trousers and spotless white shirt. His black hair was dampened and combed.

He went over to his grandfather, returning pleasantly the greetings which welcomed him, and gently put his arm about the old man.

"Come on, Gramp," he coaxed, "it's past your bedtime."

Nola twined the old man's ear affectionately and took his other arm. "Time little boys were in bed," she scolded. "And if you're good I'll take you for a long ride tomorrow. Word of honor!"

He winked solemnly, feigning on shaky legs as they lifted him from his chair. "All right, Noly. Can't say 'no' to a pretty gal—never could—"

Supported between Tally and Nola he stumbled away, nodding drowsily.

Now, their chief entertainer gone, the guests milled around the laden dining table, recalling to each other hilarious bits of Gramp's recitals. Jocelyn sighed. Tomorrow these bits would be strewn all over town.

Bob jiggled her elbow. "Don't look so vexed, Lyn. Everything is under control. Everyone is having a swell time."

Geoff caught her and carried her off for a dance. Intent on matching her steps to his, she relaxed against his solidity, thankful for his substance and familiarity. Maybe Geoff was not exciting nor pulse-stirring, but at least he was a known quantity.

The first warning of more upheaval came from the terrace. Sandy, supposedly asleep in the rear depths of the house, began barking with frightened frenzy. A shrill childish voice ordered him to "Shut up!" Then a small apparition clothed in a long cotton night gown, holding a squirming white cat under its arm, appeared in the doorway.

Continued tomorrow.

Caravan to Travel Through Upstate

Woodstock, May 18.—Accompanied by Kaj Klitgaard, former ship's master and now an artist and lecturer, the Federal Art Project's Art Caravan set out from Woodstock May 15 for a tour of up-state New York communities. The tour will last until June 1.

The portable exhibition carried in the motor truck caravan will be set up in each town visited and Mr. Klitgaard will lecture at each stop. The exhibition consists of 66 pieces, 10 oil paintings, two gouache water colors, 20 graphic prints, four colored lithographs, 12 children's paintings, six pieces of sculpture and 12 plates of the Index of American Design project.

Standards screens and pedestals for displaying the exhibition are carried in the truck and the whole show can be quickly set up, outdoors or indoors, depending upon the local arrangements and weather conditions. The caravan also carries a projection machine and Mr. Klitgaard, the artist-lecturer in charge of the tour, plans a series of illustrated talks on art, functions of the Federal Art Project and the services of the project that are available to communities.

One of the purposes of the tour is to explain to each community how it can establish art centers with the aid of the Federal Art Project.

Kaj Klitgaard, an Icelander, spent his youth as a sailor, later attended the Copenhagen Navigation School and the Danish Naval Academy from which he received a lieutenant's commission. He came to this country in 1914 and served in France with the A. E. F. Following the armistice he returned to the United States, married an artist and settled in Woodstock.

In 1937 he was awarded a Guggenheim fellowship and was commissioned to write a book on interviewing artists and getting contemporary American painting material for this forthcoming book. "Through the American country from coast to coast Landscape."

HARSH ALIEN LAWS

While the public centers its attention on foreign affairs, or on today's baseball games, a batch of bills concerning non-citizens has got into the congressional hopper. These bills threaten not only foreigners but native citizens. The public ought to ask a number of questions about these bills and express its opinion of the more drastic ones.

As described in the New York Times, some of the bills threaten aliens with deportation if they advocate any change in government, even by peaceful methods, or internment camps if their original governments will not receive them. Others would deny them relief, however needy they may be; require them to register and be fingerprinted; arrest them without warrant and send them out of the country on the slightest pretext, including failure to apply for citizenship within one year of their arrival here. One measure would prohibit all immigration and one would deport all aliens, without discrimination.

Considering that all of us must be either immigrants or descendants of immigrants, it is plain that the alien problem has been with us from the beginning. It would be a good plan to consider today's special problems thoughtfully, without prejudice, and to work out solutions designed to preserve the basic American freedoms, not wreck them.

TELEPHONE TALK

A feature of telephone company exhibits at various fairs of recent years has been the free long distance call. The person who wins it may call anyone anywhere in the country and talk for three minutes, but he has an embarrassing audience of strangers with receivers at their ears.

Observers have been much amused, and even moved to cynicism, by the complete unimportance of the conversations conducted by winners of the prize calls. There is nearly always a good deal of inquiring about how everybody is at both ends of the wire, with a ludicrous repetition of the word "Fine." Often the telephoner takes some of his precious time to say he has only another minute to talk, or to make routine comments about the weather. "So long's" or "Good-by's" usually fly back and forth more than once before the connection is broken. The talk of radio amateurs is usually about as trivial.

It's all very silly. Or is it? There is pleasure in hearing a loved voice, unexpectedly, from a great distance, even if the voice doesn't utter some profound comment on life or art or science. One may doubt that Einstein, suddenly confronted with the chance to talk briefly to a fellow-scientist across the continent, would really launch into a dissertation on his work, past or to come.

Brides seem to want their wedding-gown pictures to make them look about a quarter of a mile high. But it's all right—they'll never feel that tall again.

The business merger system is now being carried into international affairs, and every first-class nation has a string of subsidiary nations.

NESTING BIRDS

Pleasant variants from the usual spring stories about our feathered friends come from La Crosse, Wis., and Hinsdale, Ill. At a coal company in the former town men have been loading their trucks by hand and shovel because robins built a nest in the coal yard's automatic conveyor. The men expect to continue loading by hand until the young birds have left the nest.

In the Illinois community, killdeer nested on the baseball diamond of the school playground. The boys have called off their games for the time being and have put up signs all around warning others to stay at a safe distance until the eggs have hatched. They're getting in some fine nature study.

Men and boys are supposed to be cruel creatures to whom efficiency or sport would be far more important than nesting birds. These two stories, and the others which an interested person no doubt could collect almost anywhere, prove the existence of tender hearts and sympathy which ignore personal inconvenience.

Does this mean that it's the best of all possible worlds, after all, full of nothing but kindness and consideration for others, unblemished by violence, stupidity and ignorance? Hardly. It is a human world, both good and bad. It needs both sentiment about baby birds and sense about the society in which we live.

HITLER'S HELL WEEK

Hitler, says H. R. Knickerbocker, will permit "an uneasy peace" for a few months, possibly until autumn. He will be giving out alarms at intervals, trying to crack the nerve of his adversaries.

This sounds reasonable, because it is so characteristic of the Hitler method. But it has one advantage for the rest of the world. If other nations know that he is merely trying to break down their morale, they can dig in and take it.

Fraternity initiations, which seem to outsiders sometimes so cruel, are usually taken by the candidates with humor and equanimity. The freshmen understand that the object is to try their nerve. So they take the tests on the chin, grin and get away with the situation.

Hitler appears as adolescent as any sophomore. But the rest of the world now seems to have the upper hand. The cooperative nations can hold out better than the nationalistic ones. They have more power and more materials. If they can just keep their heads, knowing this, and wait for Hitler himself to crack, the uneasy peace need not develop into war, and may in time be replaced by a more stable and settled peace in which life may once more go forward.

Women may be less subject than men to war propaganda, as a psychologist might say, but look how they fall for Them Hats.

"Are the democracies really getting stronger, or just feeling stronger?" asks a reader. It amounts to the same thing.

Good idea—Jim Farley going around the country "to sell some stamps." He may yet pay off the national debt that way.

MEAT OR VEGETABLES

I watched two men exercising in a gymnasium and was struck with their excellent muscular development.

Noticing my interest, the instructor smiled and said he got a great "kick" out of hearing them argue about food. One was a vegetarian and the other ate meat three times a day. While friends in every way as they played on various teams together, they could not agree on the merits of meat or vegetables.

I told the vegetarian that he was really a meat-eater because he ate eggs and I told the meat-eater that he was a vegetarian because the beef he ate was really the grass the cow had eaten.

What about meat or vegetables as the best food for man?

I have spoken before of one of the university exhibits at the Hall of Science, Chicago's Century of Progress. This particular exhibit showed the intestine of a cow, of a dog, and of a man. The length of the intestine in a cow is nearly thirty times the length of the cow's body. It has to be this long because the food the cow eats is bulky and it takes a long time for the intestine to take the nourishment from this bulky food. "Such animals have even developed four-pouched stomachs and cud-chewing to absorb the nourishment from this food."

The intestine of the cat or the dog, meat-eating animals, is only three to four times the length of its body; meat is a rich concentrated food and is easily absorbed through the walls of the intestine into the blood.

What about the intestine in man? The length of the intestine in man is about seven times the length of his body (not considering head and legs).

I believe the above facts make it plain that as man's intestine is not as long as is the cow's and not as short as that of the cat or dog, he should eat both meat and vegetables as at present.

Some of the foods which replace meat in certain countries—rice, soy beans, and others—are rich in protein, the body building and repair factor in meat.

As Prof. J. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, has pointed out, all that the average individual needs to do to get an all-around, suitable diet is to add some raw vegetables or fruits daily to the regular meat, bread, and potato diet.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

What About Government Bonds?

Babson Says Bankers Are Financing Public Spending

New York City, May 19.—One of the toughest jobs in the financial world today is the protection of money and property. The yield on money is lower than ever and the risks and taxes greater than ever. Consequently, bankers and investors are scared to death. They do not know what to do. They feel that whatever move they make will be wrong. They have never been so hard pressed before—not even in the abyss of the depression.

The only securities which now meet with favor here on Wall Street are government bonds. Capital has been retreating into these issues for the past five years. Because the five year notes are tax-free, they meet with an artificial demand. From one end of the earth to the other, United States Government bonds are considered the strongest investments that can be bought. A number of factors have boosted these bonds to the highest price level in history so that certain issues yield less than one per cent.

Why "Governments" are Favored

These government bonds are particularly favored by managers of institutional and trust funds. Such people believe their primary job is to maintain the principal of the funds committed to their care. Income is a secondary consideration with them. Whereas 10 years ago a conservative investment fund might yield five per cent, today it yields but two or three per cent. Bankers prefer United States "Governments" because they are exchangeable into dollar bills at any time. A bank's only obligation is to pay depositors "dollars" regardless of what the purchasing power of these dollars will be. Trustees, too, are buying "Governments" because they feel the price of these bonds will hold up.

I seriously question the action of both trustees and bankers on two grounds. First, I believe that interest rates will eventually advance. Either a business boom or a war would increase money rates and shove down the high price of "Governments." Even if the price did hold up, the purchasing power of their income and principal would decline. Buying government bonds, therefore, may be as risky business today as was the buying of common stocks in 1929—except for those who want ready funds with which to meet death taxes.

Registration Would Be Embarrassing

The second reason why I question the purchase of government bonds is the financial status of the United States Government. If these bonds had to be registered with the Securities Exchange Commission in the same way that private bonds must be, I doubt if many could be marketed. Such a registration statement would have to show that the U. S. Government has not even earned operating expenses for 10 years. What corporation could get bankers to pay a premium for its two per cent bonds if it had only earned half of its operating expenses for eight consecutive years?

Yet, good corporation bonds can be bought to yield four per cent. These are obligations of well-run companies manufacturing or merchandising useful products. Ultimately, the future of government bonds depends upon the making of money by these private companies. Interest on government bonds is paid out of taxes. Corporation income taxes are the most lucrative form of taxes. These are not collected until the interest on corporation bonds is paid. Hence, no corporation profits—no taxes. Therefore, from a security standpoint, these corporation bonds should be excellent.

Repudiation or Inflation

Bankers and trustees must realize that federal debt can be reduced only in two ways: By outright repudiation (which means simply cancelling the debt) or inflation (which has the same effect in a round-about way). Because they are buying government bonds, however, these bankers and trustees feel that when repudiation or inflation ultimately comes the public will not blame them.

Despite their hatred of the administration's financial policies (and I suppose no group hates the New Deal more) these bankers and trustees do not have the guts to refuse to buy government bonds and put a stop to the whole miserable mess. Some of them tell me, "You can't definitely say that we will have inflation or repudiation, Mr. Babson. It is not yet clear that we will." Well, perhaps not. It is not yet clear that Christmas is coming again, either. I ask these men, "How can current public debts ever be paid off?"

Some answer, "They do not have to be paid off so long as they do not get any bigger." My retort is that public debts will continue to multiply unless public spending is slashed or taxes boosted. Can federal spending, for instance, ever be reduced 50 per cent? Anyone who thinks it can be cut should just review the history of the present session of Congress. It was widely advertised as an economy session. A week ago the Senate passed the largest farm appropriation bill in history by a vote of 61 to 31. Taxes can be increased easier than spending can be reduced. However, if taxes are pushed much higher I fear a national slide-down strike of taxpayers!

Meanwhile, the lazy public goes on voting for the Pied Pipers who get us into this jam. If the spending fund of these public cultures could be cut off by those who still control the country's capital markets we would take our first step on the long comeback trail. Our bankers and trustees are not only jeopardizing the interest of their own depositors and beneficiaries but they are putting an artificially high price on government bonds.

The smaller investor, less well-informed, buys "Governments" because he thinks their high price means stability and safety. Yes, every time I visit New York city I feel a great need for bankers and trustees with character and courage!

Farley's Statement Indicates Democratic Chieftains Will Support Roosevelt If He Desires Third Term

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 19.—Postmaster General Farley has cleared up the 1940 situation so far as it relates to the Democratic presidential nomination. He has not said so explicitly, but his statement in Arizona that it was futile to talk of his own candidacy for President until President Roosevelt had declared himself as to a third term was tantamount to an announcement that, if Mr. Roosevelt wants to be renominated, the Democratic chieftains will support him in that desire.

It was in some respects the only statement the chairman of the Democratic national committee present post. New Dealers here could make and remain in his abouts who have feared that Mr. Farley cherished ambitions for the presidency and was touring the country to advance his own political fortunes have hinted that he ought to give up the chairmanship. Mr. Farley counters with the most loyal kind of doctrine, something to which the most ardent New Dealer cannot possibly object.

It is not simply astute strategy, however, which prompts the postmaster general to put himself on the shelf, so to speak, till Mr. Roosevelt announces his plans for 1940, but common sense. Clearly, if Mr. Roosevelt wants to run on his own record, who in the party could deny him the chance merely on the third term issue? Every Democrat knows that tradition or unwritten interpretations of the Constitution have been thrust aside by the New Deal exponents as hardly a safe guide in troubled times of national emergency, and hence there is nothing about the third term tradition which could possibly be objectionable, for instance, to those Democrats, including Mr. Farley, by the way, who stood staunchly by the President when the latter wanted to add six justices to the Supreme Court because of a dislike of the decisions of a majority of the members of the then existing Supreme Court.

Also, what position would it leave any candidate who wanted to be the beneficiary of the Roosevelt strength if he allowed himself to be quoted as against a third term for presidents? Mr. Farley's strategy naturally must be to defend the Roosevelt administration as beyond reproach, and the moment that he does that he must concede that whenever the man who is the administration makes up his mind to ask for a third term to fulfill his program, there can be no convincing objection offered by a loyal party leader against such a decision.

It will be noted that Mr. Farley said pointedly that he was not making any suggestions to the other possible candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. Let them butt their heads against the third term tradition openly or otherwise and let them become known as anti-Roosevelt candidates, and then, Mr. Farley opines, these candidates will discover the nomination has been made impossible for them. It needs only to be recalled that the age-old two-thirds rule has been abolished now in Democratic conventions through the Roosevelt-Farley influence, and hence it takes 51 per cent of the delegates to block a nomination instead of 34 per cent as used to be the case. Mr. Roosevelt and his followers can block a nomination easily.

Mr. Farley has backed the President faithfully. If Mr. Roosevelt does not intend to run, the postmaster general wants presidential support. The stories that Vice President Garner and Postmaster General Farley are allied would not seem to be logical though it is not improbable that they have some sort of understanding. Mr. Garner for some time past has been represented as not altogether in agreement with Roosevelt policies and as inclined to be a bit more conservative than Mr. Roosevelt. It is not known what Mr. Farley's views are on vital public questions, but it is a safe bet he would not be as radical as the New Dealers; indeed, they are in the habit of linking him to the independent conservative Democrats.

It has been contended in these dispatches that Mr. Roosevelt has sufficient strength in his own party to get a third term nomination. Nobody, not even the members of his personal or official family, know his plans, and to this might be added that the President probably doesn't know them himself. He does know that in politics it is most unwise to make any commitments for too long a time in advance, and there is no urgent reason why he should say anything or do anything till 1940 arrives. Maybe in January, 1940, he will make known his feelings, or maybe he will say nothing at all and leave it to the Democratic party to decide whether it wants the strongest voice-giver in the party today or somebody else who can get as many votes.

If the Democratic party situation next year is very bad, the "draft Roosevelt" idea will tend to become stronger, on the theory that he alone can stand on the record made and defend it most vigorously. Meantime, the presidential candidacies of the other Democrats must suffer, which perhaps causes Mr. Roosevelt to lose no sleep anyway.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Romance

Greensboro, N. C.—More than a half century ago a 17-year-old girl and a youth, 24, broke their engagement after a quarrel.

The girl went away as Mrs. Cornelia Harrison Rogers. The boy, Thomas Reed, also married. Mrs. Rogers and Reed met again for the first time in 52 years. They patched up that quarrel—and married.

Pickets Paradise

Wenatchee, Wash.—Picketing is a cooperative affair with John Zitting, market proprietor.

First he provided a chair, radio and soda water for the labor council pickets who patrol before his store. Next he installed a lawn swing.

Finally he assigned one of his own employees to accompany the union man and carry a huge lawn umbrella, labelled:

"When the sun is hot, the picket is protected by the shade. When it rains, he's kept dry."

Snooze Ended

Chicago—A month ago Mrs. Howard Deiley, complaining life was like a dream to her husband but a nightmare to her, asked for a divorce.

She testified that he couldn't keep his eyes open when he returned from work, that he even dozed off in the middle of bridge games with the neighbors. Judge Rudolph Desort suggested a physical examination.

Back in court a second time Deiley reported he had been treated for a glandular disturbance and had been overcome by drowsiness no more. He and his wife asked that the suit be dismissed.

The jurist nodded—in approval.

The home garden may be converted into a beautiful rendezvous by the addition of rose arbors and garden furniture. Fencing can protect the garden from trespassers and dogs and add a decorative touch.

Nine-Year-Olds Make Up Own Songs

By The (AP) Feature Service

Atlanta, Ga. — Nine-year-olds here are learning music by composing it—and their teacher recommends the method as a sure-fire way to prevent music lesson boredom.

Mrs. Blanche Threatte, who is using the plan on 50 third-graders at a public school, says her pupils' quick grasp of song technique and their talent for musical expression and interpretation have amazed experts.

Writing poems and setting them to music often is spontaneous and may occur whenever a poetic mood strikes the group, she says.

"The coming of spring," the teacher explains, "may start an outburst of poetry writing. Or the group may begin talking about birds and decide to write songs about them."

Every student is invited to try a hand at the poem writing. Some sit, chin in hands, trying to coax the muse. Some scribble rapidly.

Mrs. Threatte selects two or three of the best poems and takes her seat at the piano with ten or twelve pupils around her.

She reads an entire poem, then a single line. The youngsters are asked to sing the line to a tune of their own making and each of three or four interpretations is run off roughly on the piano to help decide the merit. Finally the pupils vote on the tunes for that line and Mrs. Threatte translates their choice to sheet music form.

"Children of this age," Mrs. Threatte discovered, "are natural musicians. Their artistic choice of tunes is astonishing and they never have any trouble carrying the tune harmoniously."

Group Discusses New Fire District

Residents of Bloomington and Creek Locks and a committee from the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association met Thursday evening in the school house at Creek Locks to discuss the formation of a fire district.

Another meeting will be held in the school next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at which time any of the citizens of Creek Locks and Bloomington who are interested in the formation of a fire district, are urged to attend.

The committee from the county association attended the meeting to present information as to the necessary procedure to be taken in forming the proposed district, and offering the co-operation of the county association in forming a district if the citizens so desired.

Joseph O'Connor of Bloomington presided at the meeting and appointed the following committee to obtain the sentiments of the residents regarding the formation of a fire district: Edward Brodsky, Philip Grafe, Fred Husman, Warren Mowell, John Hennessy, Thomas Graham, Charles Reilly and the presiding officer.

The committee from the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at the meeting was composed of Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, J. Ellis Briggs of High Falls, John Groves of Port Ewen, Phil Fisher, Sr. of St. Remy, Fred Harder and John Heaney of Kingston, Louis Conklin of Rosendale and Frank J. Wynne of this city.

Lloyd George Sees Lindbergh Agent Of Sinister Men

London, May 19 (AP)—Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George today described Charles A. Lindbergh as "a very amiable and attractive man who was the agent and tool of much more astute and sinister men than himself."

Referring to information on the strength of the Soviet air force which the American aviator was reported to have given highly-placed Britons during the crisis last September, Lloyd George told the House of Commons:

"We shall never forget the Lindbergh episode. He was a very amiable and attractive man who was the agent and tool of much more astute and sinister men than himself."

"He went about to another member of parliament to another saying he had been in Russia. He was in Russia, I think, about a fortnight. He had not seen any of the great leaders of Russia, he could not have seen much of the air force and he came back and told us the Russian army was no good, that Russian factories were in an awful mess."

"And there were many people who believed it—except Hitler."

Lloyd George reiterated his own opinion that Russia had "the finest air force in the world."

(Col. Lindbergh and his wife visited Soviet Union August 17-31, spending most of their time with Soviet airmen. He visited Moscow motor factories, experimental laboratories and witnessed the annual Russian air show August 18.)

(After Munich, a group of Soviet airmen issued a statement October 10 accusing Lindbergh of giving an untrue picture of Soviet air strength to give Prime Minister Chamberlain arguments for surrendering Czechoslovakia.)

Will Recall Workers
Albany, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—J. G. Parsons, superintendent of the New York Central Railroad's locomotive shops here, said today 1,300 of the 1,600 workers laid off April 20 will be recalled June 5. The shops have been operating with a skeleton force of 250 men, he said.

In 1933, the railroads originated 4,166,427 carloads of bituminous coal traffic, from which their total revenue was $510,932,832, or an average of about $122.50 a car. It is estimated that the strike reduced the April movement this year by about 200,000 cars.

You might have to "take it on the chin" as the result of a damage suit if you should 'accidentally' injure someone while indulging in your favorite sport.

Gives Lecture on Christian Science

At the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday evening, a lecture on Christian Science was given by Dr. Walton Hubbard, C. S. B. member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The lecture was given under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Dr. Hubbard spoke in part as follows: Christian Science, the Science of Christianity, is rightly named. Its teachings explain the divine Principle of this Science, just as the teachings of mathematics explain the principle of numbers. Further than that, rules are provided for the application of Christian Science, so that it may be practiced, just as the science of numbers has rules for its application, for its practice. Moreover, the results which follow the practice of Christian Science—the healing of sickness, the destruction of sin, the setting aside of material law—prove it to be Science, and prove its Principle to be the Supreme Being, omnipresent, and omnipotent good.

It is evident, then, that if we are to get these results, the important thing for us to do is to make every effort to widen our concept of the true nature of God—to understand the healing and saving Principle. This may best be done by studying what others who knew God have said of Him, and by contemplating the divine nature—by earnestly seeking to know Him.

Students of Christian Science very soon discover that Mary Baker Eddy had a profound understanding of God. They also find that because of this understanding she has revealed Jesus' teachings to us in a new light—that of the Christian Science which he taught. Above the changing beliefs concerning health and harmony, individual living, and human government, the law of God remains unchanged. The Principle of Christian Science declared by Jesus is again made available to us. This spiritual understanding comes into human consciousness when we dwell upon the nature of God and recognize the perfection of His children. To understand Christian Science necessitates studying it. Yet the moment this study is begun it is possible to begin applying it.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Scotland.

Yesterday: After the dance, there is even more tension between Tally and Jocelyn.

Chapter 17

A Party

NOLA suggested: "Let's throw a huge party tonight. Impromptu affairs are always more fun. Let's get on the telephone and call everyone we know in Santa Barbara."

"But—" Thorn began.

"Silence!" Nola commanded. "I want a party. If you insist, I'll be the hostess and assume full charge, but a party I'm going to have and that's that!"

"All right," Thorn assented. "Suit you, Lynn."

"All right by me. The servants will have a fit, though."

"Then order caterers from town," Nola said.

Thorn flushed. "We really can't afford the extra expense. You see, so far we've been living on our stock dividends. Grandmother left us forty thousand in secure stocks and bonds, but even good dividends from that amount is no fortune. We're far from being rich, Nola."

"Oh, I didn't know, of course." A constrained silence gripped all of them for a few minutes. Finally Nola asserted: "I've just about completed negotiations for giving away ten million dollars to the government toward re-forestation."

"Why—that's a splendid idea," Thorn exclaimed. "However did you arrive at it?"

"Oh, with the help of a lawyer friend."

Jocelyn felt sure she meant Tally and hoped, for Thorn's peace of mind, Nola would never divulge the lawyer's identity.

"Anyhow," Nola went on, "the point is this—if I can give the government ten million, I guess I can give my hosts and their friends a party."

Thorn's eyes, appealing and miserable, met Jocelyn's.

"You'll do no such a thing," Jocelyn declared. "You're our guest. Besides, I haven't played hostess for a long time. Our servants will make out very well. Come on, all of you, and get busy on the telephone! Be sure and offer midnight swimming."

People literally swarmed over the right division of Scotland that evening. Both the piano and the radio were going full blast. The drawing room was crowded with dancers; the swimming pool splashed with swimmers; the terrace echoed with the shouts and laughter of couples playing children's games and deriving hilarious fun from them. Jocelyn, thinking it was such a very nice party, was puzzled when, a little past midnight, Humphreys told her Tally was on the porch asking for her.

"Tell him to come in," she advised.

"He says will you please come out on the porch, Miss Jocelyn, for he is not dressed for a party."

Making an excuse to her dancing partner, Jocelyn found Tally leaning against a stone balustrade. He was attired in his working clothes; his hair tousled and tumbling over his forehead.

"Hello—did you want to see me?"

"Yes," his voice was brusque. "I don't like to spoil your fun, but none of us can sleep with so much noise going on. Betsy has nearly driven Mother crazy, and I have to be up at sunrise."

Unwanted Guest
"Oh—I didn't realize. I'm really sorry," she said sincerely. "I'll turn down the radio and feed everyone. That usually quietes them. I'm sure we won't give you any more trouble."

"Thank you. I'll try to get some sleep. Good night."

Before she could say anything further he had disappeared into the shadows around the corner of the house. For a few minutes she remained where she was, her thoughts strangely depressing. Then, with a shrug, she went back into the drawing-room, crossed to the radio and turned it lower.

Going into the kitchen she gave orders for serving the buffet supper on the great oak table in the dining-room.

When she returned to the party another guest had arrived: an unwanted and unbidden guest; old Talbot Mack.

Already some prankster had encoined him in a comfortably cushioned chair and had collected a group of listeners who encouraged him to relate his more colorful adventures on the "Seventy Seas."

Gramp, spying Jocelyn, hesitated. A wistful expression crept into his discerning old eyes. "I hope you don't mind me coming into your party this way, Josie. I hope you don't mind me coming in like this. I heard laughter and music and it seemed like I just couldn't stay away—it's been so long since I went a-partying."

Bob Russell crossed the room with swift strides and laid a reassuring hand on the old man's stooped shoulders. "Of course she doesn't mind," he asserted. "We're glad to have you, Gramp."

The circle closed in again, shutting out Jocelyn. She hurried to the terrace to round up her guests for supper, refraining from mentioning the old man's presence to Geoff or Thorn. But when the guests, talking and laughing, filed into the house, Nola, who had called a delighted greeting, Jocelyn noted his relief and pleasure at seeing Nola, who immediately perched on the arm of his chair and affectionately ruffled his hair and teased him about marrying an Irish barnmaid.

For the next hour, busy with her guests, Jocelyn did not permit herself to think of anything but her duty as hostess. She reminded Thorn, when he frowned an objection to Gramp, that this party was for Nola and if Nola wanted the old man it was their duty to be tactful.

However, old Talbot Mack, with the assistance of willing cupbearers, soon became comically intoxicated. Struggling to his feet he danced for them, awkwardly shuffling his worn house-slippers. Then he sang ballads in his high, cracked voice; ballads both dolorous and lifting. The more he performed the more he was urged on, until great drops of perspiration came out on his forehead and rolled down the deep creases of his face.

Thorn fidgeted with annoyance. Geoff fretted the exasperation. Jocelyn thought, "They're making a fool of him—it's awful!"

With abrupt decision she went through the lower hall to the communicating door which led into the Mack's domain. Turning the lock, she went through and marched up the broad stairway, her eyes flashing with indignation.

Not knowing which room was Tally's, she stopped in the center of the upper hallway and softly called his name. A few seconds later a door opposite opened and a pair of sleepy eyes blinked at her.

Known Quantity

"TALLY," she implored, "please come down and get your grandfather. He—he's making sport of him. It—it's cruel. Please come and take him away and keep him out of—"

"Your parlor!" Tally finished. "Which reminds me, I did promise you we would stay out of your parlor, didn't I?"

"Yes—but that isn't why I came."

"Isn't it? I don't see why you bother to pretend an interest in Gramp's welfare when the truth is you're ashamed of him."

Jocelyn bit her lip. "Very well. If that is your opinion we'll let it go. Just get him out and keep him out."

She fled down the stairs feeling fearful at his unjust accusation; for it was unjust, she assured herself. Tally and his family had done nothing but annoy and humiliate her since the day of their arrival. Tally had thwarted her every move. He was horrid and mean and egotistical! He had kissed her only in order to humiliate her. He had no doubt laughed many times over the way she had capitulated that night at the club dance. Well, he could just laugh out of the other side of his mouth, for he was nothing to her but a necessary nuisance that had to be borne until the day she married Geoffrey.

Tally, putting in an appearance ten minutes later, was dressed in well-fitting white flannel trousers and spotless white shirt. His black hair was dampened and combed. He went over to his grandfather, returning pleasantly the greetings which welcomed him, and gently put his arm about the old man.

Come on, Gramp," he coaxed. "It's past your bedtime."

"Don't wanta go!"

Nola tweaked the old man's ear affectionately and took his other arm. "Time little boys were in bed," she scolded. "And if you're good I'll take you for a long ride tomorrow. Word of honor!"

He winked solemnly, teetering on shaky legs as they lifted him from his chair. "All right, Nola. Can't say 'no' to a pretty gal—never could."

Supported between Tally and Nola he stumbled away, nodding drowsily.

Now, their chief entertainer gone, the guests milled around the laden dining table, recalling to each other hilarious bits of Gramp's recitals. Jocelyn sighed. Tomorrow these bits would be shown all over town.

Bob rested his elbow. "Don't look so vexed, Lynn. Everything is under control. Everyone is having a swell time."

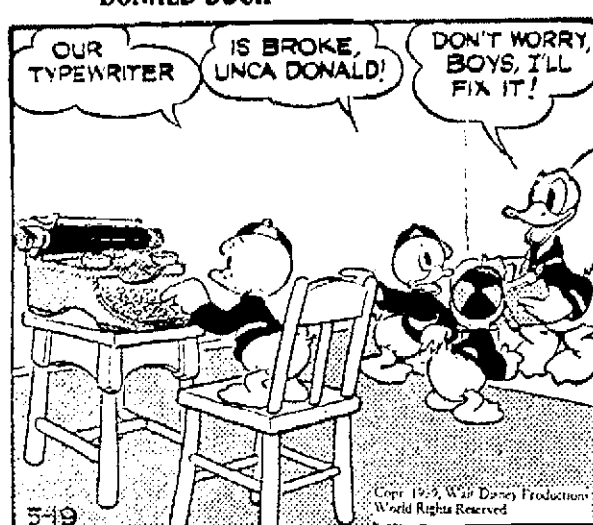

Geoff caught her and carried her off for a dance. Intent on matching her steps to his, she relaxed against his solidity, thankful for his substance and familiarity. Maybe Geoff was not exciting nor pulse-stirring, but at least he was a known quantity.

The first warning of more upheaval came from the terrace. Sandy, supposedly asleep in the rear depths of the house, began barking with frightened frenzy. A shrill child's voice ordered him to "Shut up!" Then a small apparition clothed in a long cotton nightgown, holding a long, thin white cat under its arm, appeared in the doorway.

Continued tomorrow.

Caravan to Travel Through Upstate

Woodstock, May 18.—Accompanied by Kaj Klitgaard, former ship's master and now an artist and lecturer, the Federal Art Project's Art Caravan set out from Woodstock May 15 for a tour of up-state New York communities. The tour will last until June 1.

The portable exhibition carried in the motor truck caravan will be set up in each town visited and Mr. Klitgaard will lecture at each stop. The exhibition consists of 66 pieces, 10 oil paintings, two gouache water colors, 20 graphic prints, four colored lithographs, 12 children's paintings, six pieces of sculpture and 12 plates of the Index of American Design project.

Standards screens and pedestals for displaying the exhibition are carried in the truck and the whole show can be quickly set up, outdoors or indoors, depending upon the local arrangements and weather conditions. The caravan also carries a projection machine and Mr. Klitgaard, the artist-lecturer in charge of the tour, plans a series of illustrated talks on art, functions of the Federal Art Project and the services of the project that are available to communities.

Kaj Klitgaard, an Icelander, spent his youth as a sailor, later attended the Copenhagen Navigation School and the Danish Naval Academy from which he received a lieutenant's commission. He came to this country in 1914 and served in France with the A. E. F. Following the armistice he returned to the United States, married an artist and settled in Woodstock.

In 1937 he was awarded a Guggenheim fellowship and was commissioned to write a book on contemporary American painting. He recently completed a tour of the country from coast to coast interviewing artists and getting material for this forthcoming book, "Through the American Landscape."

House Committee Will Tell Public Anti-Jewish Plot

Washington, May 19 (AP)—The House committee on un-American activities, confronted with testimony which fantastically linked an anti-Semitic campaign to fears of revolution, set out today to uncover the whole story and tell it to the public.

It issued subpoenas for George Van Horn Moseley, retired major general, and three others mentioned in secret testimony yesterday, and ordered agents to hunt for a mysterious waiter who witnesses have said circulated "inside" information he overheard in an exclusive New York club.

The subpoenas, directing appearance before the committee Monday, went also to John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman; George Deatherage of St. Albans, W. Va., chief of the White Knights of the Camellia; and Felix McWhirter, Indianapolis banker.

The committee agreed to issue the subpoenas after deliberating 25 minutes in executive session. "How many more will be issued no one knows," Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) said.

The committee will meet again Monday, in open session, he said, after its staff has had an opportunity to scrutinize yesterday's testimony.

Hamilton's name was brought up in testimony that he had, on request, supplied a list of the party's national committeemen to a man identified as active in the anti-Jewish campaign.

The Republican leader said he would be "very happy to appear," that his office supplied the list as a matter of routine. Saying that there was nothing in the requesting letter which indicated any anti-Semitic activity, he added: "If there had been, there would have been no correspondence on my part."

No witnesses were summoned before the committee at the morning meeting, but James Erwin Campbell, 42-year-old reserve army captain, at Owensboro, Ky., was on hand for questioning if needed.

Dies has told newsmen that Campbell had testified he sent certain "secret" reports to 40 persons. Committee investigators said Campbell also had sent copies of speeches by Moseley to a mailing list of about 200.

Church Holds Its Installation Rite

he said, "and I know that this means a real spiritual uplift in your membership and the upbuilding of your church."

Reading from the first epistle of Peter he said that the word written by Peter so long ago was just as true and appropriate today as it was then, and he urged the congregation to live up to its responsibilities and to continue the splendid record it had established in the past.

During the services the church quartet and chorus choir rendered a special music program under the direction of Mrs. Harry G. Smith, organist and choir director, while Mrs. Ethel Wood, soprano soloist, sang a solo.

The New Pastor

The Rev. Mr. Doherty came to the Rondout Church from Milford, N. J., where he had served the Presbyterian Church there as pastor for 14 years.

After completing a full Presbyterian college and seminary course in Ohio, and a postgraduate course in Princeton University, the Rev. Mr. Doherty was pastor of the Beemerville Presbyterian Church, and later served the Oxford Presbyterian Church in New Jersey until called to the pastorate of the Milford Presbyterian Church.

During the years he resided in Milford he was active in both the religious and civic life of that city, serving as a member of the Board of Education. He also was active in foreign missions, serving on the Presbyterian committee of foreign missions while a member of the New Brunswick Presbytery, which he represented as a commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in 1932.

The Rev. Mr. Doherty is a member of the Eastern Pa. Philatelic Society and served as secretary of the Delaware Valley Stamp Club.

His wife while in Milford was also very active in church work and is a graduate of the Girls' Normal School in Philadelphia.

106th Anniversary

With the installation of the Rev. Mr. Doherty as pastor, the Rondout Presbyterian Church, which this year is observing its 106th anniversary has been served by fourteen pastors.

The church was organized on November 1, 1833, and the cornerstone of the present church was laid on June 4, 1873.

When the church was first organized over a century ago it numbered 16 in its membership.

Previous to the organization of the church, Walter B. Crane and George W. Endicott held a consultation the outcome of which was the formation of the first Sunday School in Rondout. From that beginning the Rondout Presbyterian Church came into existence a few years later.

The first church services were held in a school house, and at a meeting there on July 9, 1833, Maurice Wurts, Abram Hasbrouck, John Ferguson, George W. Endicott, Edwin H. Bolton, Alexander Snyder and Walter B. Crane, were appointed to act as trustees and a building committee for the proposed new church.

On August 13, 1833, articles of agreement were made between the committee and Paul Brooks for the erection of a suitable building for the Presbyterian Church to be 56 feet long and 40 feet wide with a seating capacity of about three hundred. Work was begun at once on the site now occupied by Temple Emanuel on Abel street and on October 8, of that year the cornerstone was laid.

First Church Cost $5,000

On June 19, 1834, the edifice was dedicated. The cost of the building without the tower, which was added later, was $5,000. In 1853 the edifice was enlarged and improved at a cost of $3,000.

For forty years services were held in the church, and the congregation grew in numbers. The decision was finally reached to erect a larger church and a building committee was appointed consisting of Edward Tompkins, David B. Abbey, Charles Bray, Walter B. Crane, Abel A. Crosby, Roland Otis, James McCausland and the Rev. Edward D. Ledyard, the pastor.

Present Church Cost $51,280

Lawrence B. Valk of New York city, was the architect of the proposed church and the contract to erect it was awarded to Henry W. Otis, mason, and Henry W. Palen, carpenter, both of this city.

The estimated cost of the building was $44,000, but the actual cost, owing to some changes in the plan, was $51,280.

Cornerstone Laid

The cornerstone of the church was laid with impressive ceremonies on June 4, 1873.

On Sunday, June 3, 1923, the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the church was celebrated and the pastor, the late Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, preached an eloquent sermon on "The Corner Stone."

Henry W. Otis, the contractor who erected the present church, was present at the services together with 10 others who were present at the cornerstone laying.

The committee will continue plans for Ulster County Day at the fair and by June 26 it is planned to have a program which will attract fair visitors to the New York amphitheatre and bring to the attention of visitors not only the desirability of visiting Ulster county as a year round resort center but also call attention very forcefully to the talent of Ulster county and Kingston, the first capital of the state of New York. The entertainment program will take place on the afternoon of June 26.

Eugene Freer, chairman of the transportation committee, will be in New York over the week-end to complete arrangements for transportation on Ulster County Day. Whether arrangements will be made for special transportation by railroad, boat or bus will definitely be known after this conference.

Ulster County Day at the New York World's Fair is designed not only to publicize Ulster county at the fair and among the visitors there on June 26 but to also let visitors on their way to the fair know about the desirability of this region. Publicity given through the Ulster County Day at the fair will make known to visitors enroute to or from the fair that Ulster county is a good place to visit and also a resort center where all year sports are to be found.

To Erect Signs

In connection with the publicizing of the county the Publicity Committee will have erected at the entrances to the county large signs acquainting travelers of the fact that they are entering the county, that it is a recreational center for year-round entertainment and that Kingston was the first capital of the state of New York. This and other historical facts will be made known to the travelers by means of signs.

Poster advertising of the desirability of paying the county a visit will be distributed by the committee and efforts will be made to make known the fact that Ulster county is a good place to pay a short visit, a long visit at any season of the year or to take up a permanent residence. Folders will be distributed through travel agencies, hotels, bus lines and gas stations calling attention of the traveling public to the county's advantages.

In connection with the distribution of this publicity the finance committee will play an important part. The recently formed Ulster County Council, a cooperative organization formed in the county to publicize and promote the county's advantages, will offer memberships in the council. These memberships will be sold to individuals or as associate memberships for the sum of $2 which will include a combination membership in the Council and one admission to the World's Fair which will be good on June 26 or any day thereafter. A button showing that the subscriber is a member of the council will also be provided.

Funds raised by the memberships will be used to promote Ulster county as a recreation center and to carry out the work of publicizing the county as a year-round sports center.

In addition to the $2 individual memberships a campaign will shortly be started to secure active or business memberships which will be sold for $6 or more. These memberships will be in the nature of a contribution but will include the admission to the World's Fair on Ulster County Day, June 26, or may be used at any future date. Included will be an official membership button.

An Ode to the Lily-of-the-Valley
Dear little lowly flower
Of thee I sing,
For thy rare fragrant power,
Sweet memories bring.
Each pure and dainty blossom,
Every tiny bell,
Rings in my heart a message
Only love can tell.
Why grow so shy and lowly
Sweetest of them all?
Just so we bend in homage
At thy feet to fall.
So now I crown thee, fairest
Blossom of the spring,
And thy perfume is the rarest
Dainty, pretty thing.

Wife—Dear, I saw the sweetest little hat downtown today.
Husband—Put it on; let's see how you look in it.

It matters not what you are employed to do, loyalty is that something else that is expected of you.

"Yes, we spent our holiday touring in the south. It was beautiful down there."
"Motored down, eh? Well, you must have passed some glorious scenery."

"Oh, we must have. Why, we averaged well over 400 miles a day!"

A Vision of Women's Hats
See the hats, the crazy hats
Some tall, others flat, Round hats, square hats, floppy hats

Hats with peaks, tricornes, stov-lids
Regular freaks, saucy hats, some with veils

Anything to catch the males,
Hats with fur
Hats with lace, some cast shadows across the face with holes

Doughnut, rolls, hats with holes
Around the brim, hats happy hats grim

First they're startling, then pleasing
Daring teasing
And somehow they're all in style.

Mistress—Mandy, I found my new silk slip in your closet.
Mandy—And you thought you'd lost it. Imagine that!

"If I Could Just Work"
It seems that when we're feeling fine, we're not so glad to work.
In fact, if we had some excuse a lot of it we'd shirk.

But—let some ailment lay us low,
and gee! we get ambitious.
And this applies to all—though we run banks—or just wash dishes.

When we can't move, we lie and think of pleasant tasks galore;
But each sweet task—if we were well—would be a painful chore.

It's funny those old tiresome jobs, which we go frowning through,
Look so inviting when we're sick,
it's funny—but it's true.

—LYLA MYERS.

Frances—Oh, I adore that funny little new step you have acquired.
Where did you pick it up?
Hubby—Funny step, nothing.
My suspenders just busted.

Start every day with the feeling that it is to be the best day you ever lived—and the chances are it will be.

Judge—Do you consider the defendant a reliable man? Has he a good reputation for truth and veracity?

Witness—Well, to be honest with you, your honor, that man has to get somebody else to call his hogs at feeding time. They won't believe him.

Poetry and music are to the tired nerves just what the gentle rain is to the parched flower, or a kind word to a tired soul.

Boxer—Win, lose, or draw I get $5,000.
Reporter—I see—every clout has a silver lining.

Teacher—What makes the best leather for shoes?
Pupil—I can't think, but banana peel makes the best slippers.

Lehman Studies
U. S. Trade Bill

Albany, N. Y., May 18 (AP)— Governor Lehman considered today a bill, opposed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, which sponsors assert would stimulate the
"buy American" campaign.

The Chief Executive received the measure after the Senate approved it by a 29-13 vote despite an admission that Hull had communicated with state officials stating the measure would hamper his efforts to bring about reciprocal trade agreements with foreign countries.

It would make it a misdemeanor for merchants to knowingly sell any article which "does not contain a mark of origin conspicuously displayed thereon."
Sponsors asserted "many citizens, advocates of the 'buy American' program, have purchased foreign made articles when they intended to buy American made goods."

Says Bund Dead
in Buffalo Area

Buffalo, N. Y., May 19 (AP)—
With the assertion that "Nazism and the Bund are extinct in western New York," an American Legion official revealed today that 75 former members of the German-American Bund had invited Legion members to a picnic and dinner at their one-time "Bund camp."

Paul Wansley, chairman of the Erie county American Legion
Americanization Committee, said the picnic would take place June
3 at Camp Porterville, near East
Aurora, where he said at one time
"Bund activities drew as many as 400 enthusiasts on week-ends."
The former Bundsmen, Wansley said, "have renounced the Bund, uniforms and goosestep parades, and are devoting themselves to a study of 100 per cent Americanism."

"Evidence of just how dead the Bund has become in this area," the Legion official said, "may be seen in the fact that the organization's national field secretary, G.
Wilhelm Quinsey, came to Buffalo three weeks ago to address a meeting, and he drew an audience of exactly four persons."

Independents Trim Grunies; Boxing Bouts Resumed Tonight

Dawkinsmen Bomb 3 Baker Pitchers For Twelve Hits

Stumpf, 1st Batter, Greets Dlouhy With Triple—Sleight, Strubel Take Mound

The Kingston Independents, unleashing a 12-hit barrage on three Grunwald hurlers, won 10-5 in last night's City League feature. Bombing Dlouhy, St. Remy southpaw, to cover in the first inning and racking Sleight and Strubel, the Dawkinsmen chalked up their third straight victory.

Addie Stumpf greeted Dlouhy with a ringing three-bagger to right, ambling home as Kelly muffed Lamb's relay. McLean slashed a double and tallied as Lamb juggled Bock's shot. Tommy Maines prodded a tremendous triple to deep center and countered when "Big Boy" Rider whipped a double to polish off Dlouhy. Sleight came in and stymied the independents' "Big Berthas."

Walks to Knight and Dykes and Van Etten's bingle went awry when Knight was picked off trying to tally, Smedes, Minasian to Kelly, on Bing's base knock. The Independents pushed over three more in the fourth on McLean's and Rider's singles, Maines' long loft which Kelder muffed and knight's prodigious three bagger.

Grunies Tally 4 Runs
Bush weakened in the fifth and the Grunies showed across four markers. Minasian got a life when Van Etten muffed McLean's toss which coupled with Strubel's pass and Lamb's safety netted two tallies. Bill Hanley boomed a lashing liner to deep left for another triple and scored on Purvis' one base punch for four markers. The Bakerboys added another in the sixth when Smedes lashed another triple and came home on Minasian's loft to Maines in deep left center.

Stumpf's double, singles by Bush, McLean and Bock and Maines' walk rang up two more markers on the Independents' score sheet to cease the Powerhouse's pill-pounding for the evening.

Dlouhy Battered
Johnny Weiss' St. Remy importation, Dlouhy, fell victim to a vicious first round base-hit assault and was rocked from the Grunies' mound on five successive base knocks. Sleight was rocked heartily during his four-inning stay but Strubel escaped being scored on. Bob Bush, Dawkins' ace, pitched another well-hurled performance, issuing six hits during the late innings and being in command of the situation at all times.

Rider, Stumpf and McLean paced the Independents' Powerhouse with twin safeties apiece as every business figure in the hit column. Lamb, Hanley and Smedes led the Bakerboys' base-hit parade.

Bleacher Barney
Bing Van Etten came up with a sensational twisting pluck of Purvis' tricky looper behind first for the game's fielding highlight.

Gene "Big Boy" Rider looked like a runaway tractor when he plowed into the third base bleachers in a mad dash to snare Minasian's foul fly. The Independents' "One-Man Gang," all in all, put on quite a show for the bleachers last night.

Hanley snared Knight's long slice to left with a desperate back-hand stab while reeling backwards in the 6th.

The wolves howled when Vince Smedes put up a squawk to ump

RED was his face as well as his name when Russell "Red" Evans (right), rookie now with the Dodgers by way of New Orleans, recently overlooked Pepper Martin who stole home to give the Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the Brooklynites.

Yanks Do It Without DiMag—Tonight's Sports Attractions

Lou Knapp's Boiceville Rangers start their home season Sunday with St. Remy furnishing the opposition. . . . Sam Barnett, first mentioned as the manager of the St. Remy club, is not active with the team. . . . Tommy Dunaher, the pro at Wiltwyck Golf Club, looks for a big opening day Sunday in that tournament with Windham. . . . Lets hope for a nice sunny setting. . . . Wonder if Dwight McEntee, Jr., has been doing any practicing on his "boomerang" ball. . . . We'll have to ask Harry Hutton. . . . That note on Big Joe Mahar last night should have been three hit pitches instead of three hit batsmen. . . . Okay Joe! . . . Softball players are complaining about the diamond at Block No. 2. . . . They think it should be put into the same condition as the other fields. . . . And the rest of them are in what the boys term excellent shape. . . . Those who saw Columbia-Princeton via television say they'll take a seat in the right field bleachers. . . . Jack Dawkins' Independents strengthened their hold on first place in the City League last night. . . . Looks like Jackie knows how to pick 'em.

Two big attractions this evening: The Colonial-Glens Falls State League game at the Athletic Field, and the card of boxing bouts at Municipal Auditorium. . . . A crowd is expected at both events. . . . Umpire Red Ormsby carved seven of his 12 kids out to see the Indians and White Sox, reports the Associated Press. . . . "Where are the others?" somebody asked. . . . "They had to stay home and take a nap," answered Ormsby. . . . Physicians have advised George Conway, trainer of War Admiral to quit the turf for a long rest. . . . The Yanks are averaging a homer a game without Joe DiMaggio. . . . There was a jolly time at the banquet of the Central Recreation Bowling League last night at Huling's Barn. . . . After the menu of chicken and all that goes with it, the bowlers and their ladies danced to the tunes of Larry La-Rochelle's band. . . . Buddy Moore, the Golden Glove heavyweight champion, who looks like Joe Louis, and fights like him, has drawn 10,000 customers to his last three fights. . . . But, he's skeptical about meeting that boy Ketchuck from Binghamton, who beat him twice. . . . Reports are that the Giants will grab Tom Hafez from Jersey City the first time Mayor Hague turns his back.

Time Trials for Racers Tomorrow At Indianapolis

Indianapolis, May 19 (AP)—A score of "young men in a hurry" stepped forward today with a "we are ready" as the roll was called.

Dick Dulin and followed up with another impassioned plea to base arbiter Murphy. Looks like the wolves are slowly rounding into form judging from Smedes' reception.

Gil Kelder better take that sponge out of his trusty fly-snarer. The Rosemeade wild-horse can't seem to make that onion stick in that leather basket, anymore.

Bock and McLean collaborated to reel off a slick twin-killing on Pepper's roller in the 5th. Just like Crosetti and Gordon!

Glens Falls Club Plays Colonials This Evening At the Athletic Field

This evening the Kingston Colonials will make their second bid for victory in the State Baseball League, playing against the club from Glens Falls. Starting time of the encounter is 6 o'clock. Charlie Neff, Stone Ridge school teacher, will start on the mound for Kingston, Manager Fred Davi said, predicting that the flinger from the Ridge should give the upstarters plenty to swing at.

"We need the win," Davi went on, "and I think Neff will bring us through provided he gets the sort of support that encourages a pitcher." Davi counts on winning this evening, then heading his club for Sunday's game at the Athletic Field against the leaguers from Bennington, Vt.

In their first game here, the Colonials bowed to the Mohawk Giants, 8-5, but really should have won. Two errors, by Frank Neff and Charlie Husta in the pinches blew the decision, which would have gone down as a victory for Toddy Uhl only for the miscues.

Uhl looked impressive on the mound, despite the upset, and, in fact, the whole club gave the impression that with a few more games to warm them up, things would be different.

With Charlie Francello back at second this evening, and Bill Thomas, who replaced him against the Giants, back in the outfield, the Colonials' chances should be better.

This is the way the Colonials are expected to line up against the Glens Falls nine: Jack Schatzel, Charlie Francello, Charlie Husta and Bill Finger in the infield.

Tommy Maines, Mack Tiano and Bill Thomas in the outer garden. Joe Hoffman or "Gabby" Benjamin will catch, with Neff doing the pitching.

Besides turning in a stellar performance out in the field against the Mohawks, Mack Tiano came to the rescue of the Davimen with a homer and triple, proving that the Colonials have hitting power which they really need in the state loop.

A crowd is expected for the skirmish with Glens Falls, which will start promptly at 6 o'clock. Those attending the game are asked to observe the field rules of remaining back of the base-paths to avoid trouble for the players and to protect themselves against injury from hard hit balls.

Softball Notes

Federation League
A. Foster Winfield, secretary of the Board of Public Works, is the first "casualty" of the present season in the Men's Club Federation Softball League. A. Foster was so roughly treated in several mix-ups Thursday evening while endeavoring to gather in the elusive horse-hide that he suffered a broken thumb, a cut on the face and numerous other "minor" injuries and today he is threatening to "quit" and let the "young fellows" play that strenuous game. Scores: Presbyterians 5, Port Ewen 4; Hurley 7, Trinity 1; E. 5, Redeemers 5, Albany Avenue Baptists 4. Scheduled tonight: Fair Street vs. Ulster Park at Hasbrouck Park; Hurley vs. Redeemers at armory; St. James-Comforter game off.

Centrals Victors
Last night at Block Park No. 2, the Central Hudson softballers scored a 14-3 victory over the Country Club Frocks. Pennington, Strong and Craw made up the Centrals' battery and Hotelling and Greenberg for the Frocks.

Catholic Games
The regular schedule of Catholic League softball games, as published this week, will be played this evening. Members of St. Joseph's team are to meet at the school at 6:15 to make the trip to East Kingston. Those having cars are requested to bring them for transportation.

City League
Apollos Win
At lower Hasbrouck Park last night, the Apollos defeated Canfields, 10-5. Each club made 11 hits, Tinnie of the plumbers clouting a triple with the bases loaded. Batteries: Peterson and Coutant for Apollo; Rice and Rowe for Canfields.

Hercules, 15; N. Y. A. C., 3
Thursday night at Loughran Park the Hercules softballers trounced the N. Y. A. C. by the score of 15-3. Hertia showed splendid form

K.H.S. Trackmen to Compete In Hudson Saturday Afternoon

Kingston High School's track squad will attempt to make it three in a row tomorrow afternoon when Coaches G. Warren Kias and Loyne Connick take their club up to Hudson. The club will leave the high school at 12 o'clock sharp.

So far this year the Kias-Connick forces have ridden teams from Middletown and Poughkeepsie and with a bit of extra work should take Hudson in stride. Last week Hudson was shelled all over the track by a superior aggregation from Albany's Peter Schuyler School.

Jess Shultis, Johnny Ennis, Ken Douglas, Milt Tsitsera and a host of other veterans are looking forward to some new highs tomorrow. Since the Poughkeepsie clash the two mentors have been working their charges to get them in the best possible physical shape.

The following is the complete squad which will make the trip tomorrow: 100-yard dash, Tucker, Terwilliger, Nussbaum and Dodd. 220-yard dash, Tucker, Fallon, Saehloff and Chris Perry. 440-yard dash, Bill Cole, Johnny Ennis, Cully and Kippy Parslow. One-half mile, Joe Beirach, Waltman, Rice and Bowers. Mile, Jess Shultis, Joe Toney, Mike Spada and Babe Markle. Pole vault, Milt Tsitsera, Mel Samuels and Bill Ferguson. Discus, Andy Murphy, Gill, Gray, Cook and Nock. Shotput, Culver, Ten Broeck, Andy Murphy, Healey and Nock. Javelin, Ten Broeck, Roger on the mound for Hercules fanning five and allowing but two scratch singles.

Morton collected a four-bagger for the powdermen and Murphy collected three hits to lead the 16 hit attack on Dart, N. Y. A. C. twirler.

Batteries: Hercules, Hertia and Kennedy; N. Y. A. C., Dart and White.

Perry, Williams, Armstrong and Bookman on Top

Raigins-Forezzi and Sarinelli-Gartex on Card—Lots of Action Is Expected

This is Fight Night at the municipal auditorium for the first in three weeks and indications are that there will be a good card of amateur scraps attended by a crowd of fistic fans.

Topping the bill are two five rounders that should be packed with ginger. In one Dutch Williams of Newburgh will battle Charlie "Sergeant" Perry, and in the other Monk Armstrong will tangle with Buddy Bookman.

Perry, the ex-cavalry light-heavyweight from West Point, who won the Diamond Belt championship, and came through in the Adirondack A. U. Golden Gloves to win a title at the nationals at San Francisco, hopes to still the claims of Williams.

The Newburgh scrapper has been establishing himself as one of the top notch 170 pounders along the Hudson valley, and his handler, Walt Ligon, thinks he'll come through with a victory over Perry. "Williams hits too hard for the 'Sarge'," opined Ligon.

Backers of the former West Pointer come up with the argument that Perry can take it, and bank on his experience to help him score a victory over Dutch.

Monk Armstrong, who recently spent a week in the Salem Crescent gym, where the New York champions are turned out by George Gainford, hopes to come through in his duel with Buddy Bookman, the Hurleyville slugger who trimmed Hugo Dubaldi on the last card at the auditorium.

Armstrong thinks the tricks he learned in the metropolitan camp will make the going easier and he counts on turning in a victory. Monk holds the 160-pound Diamond Belt championship of the Adirondack A. U. Bookman was impressive in his scrap with Dubaldi, scoring a win over the rugged Newburgher who has since turned professional. In his first fight for money, Dubaldi defeated Red Van Alstyne at White Plains.

Another five rounder that is expected to have the fans standing in their seats is the match between Charlie Forezzi of Albany and Charlie Honeyboy Raigins, the Saugerties clouter who won a Diamond Belt last fall and later bombed his way to the national A. A. U. tournament at San Francisco.

Forezzi has been gunning for Raigins, and vice versa, ever since the tournament. The Albany boy says he'll prove he's a better featherweight than Raigins even if the Honeyboy does hold the title.

The other bouts: Tony Gartex, Poughkeepsie, vs. Leo Sarinelli, Albany, Diamond Belt bantamweight champion.

Carl Beck, Poughkeepsie, vs. Joe Andrews, Albany. Jackie Hogan, Kingston, vs. Baby Bunce, Kingston, grudge match.

Jess Caprotti, Kingston, will meet an opponent from Albany in the seventh match on the card. Starting time of the first preliminary is 9 o'clock.

Bill Jurgens, New York Giants' shortstop, is timing his throw this spring better than ever in his life, the experts say. Maybe it's because Bill had his residence last winter in Arlington, Va., next door to the Naval Observatory from where the tin-signal sets the clocks of the nation.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Romance
Greensboro, N. C.—More than a half century ago a 17-year-old girl and a youth, 24, broke their engagement after a quarrel.
The girl went away as Mrs. Cornelia Harrison Rogers. The boy, Thomas Reed, also married.
Rogers and Reed met again for the first time in 52 years. They patched up that quarrel — and married.

Pickets Paradise
Wenatchee, Wash.—Picketing is a cooperative affair with John Zitting, market proprietor.
First he provided a chair, radio and soda water for the labor council pickets who patrol before his store. Next he installed a lawn swing.
Finally he assigned one of his own employees to accompany the union man and carry a huge lawn umbrella, labelled:

"When the sun is hot, the picket is protected by the shade. When it rains, he's kept dry."

Snooze Ended

Chicago—A month ago Mrs. Howard Dealey, complaining life was like a dream to her husband, but a nightmare to her, asked for a divorce.

She testified that he couldn't keep his eyes open when he returned from work, that he even dozed off in the middle of bridge games with the neighbors Judge Rudolph Desort suggested a physical examination.

Back in court a second time Dealey reported he had been treated for a glandular disturbance and had been overcome by drowsiness no more. He and his wife asked that the suit be dismissed.

The jurist nodded—in approval.
The home garden may be converted into a beautiful rendezvous by the addition of rose arbors and garden furniture. Fencing can protect the garden from trespassers and dogs and add a decorative touch.

Nine-Year-Olds Make Up Own Songs

By The (AP) Feature Service
Atlanta, Ga. — Nine-year-olds here are learning music by composing it—and their teacher recommends the method as a sure-fire way to prevent music lesson boredom.

Mrs. Elanthe Threault, who is using the plan on 50 third-graders, at a public school, says her pupils' quick grasp of song technique and their talent for musical expression and interpretation have amazed experts.

Writing poems and setting them to music often is spontaneous and may occur whenever a poetic mood strikes the group, she says. "The coming of spring," the teacher explains, "may start an outburst of poetry writing. Or the group may begin talking about birds and decide to write songs about them."

Every student is invited to try a hand at the poem writing. Some sit, chin in hands, trying to coax the muse. Some scribble rapidly. Mrs. Threault selects two or three of the best poems and takes her seat at the piano with ten or twelve pupils around her.

She reads an entire poem, then a single line. The youngsters are asked to sing the line to a tune of their own making and each of three or four interpretations is run off roughly on the piano to help decide the merit. Finally the pupils vote on the tunes for that line and Mrs. Threault translates their choice to sheet music form. "Children of this age," Mrs. Threault discovered, "are natural musicians. Their artistic choice of tunes is astonishing and they never have any trouble carrying the tune harmoniously."

County Theatre
Scores Hit In Play

One of the best plays presented by the Ulster County Theatre Association in its short existence was given last evening in the high school auditorium by eight members of the group under the direction of William Fitch, local director of dramatics and a member of the association.

The play, "Night Must Fall," by Emyln Williams, had enough romance, drama, humor and thrills to please all tastes. There was even a murder committed on the stage. The actors gave unstintingly of their efforts in producing the desired effects, giving abundant reason for the applause that rang through the auditorium.

The performance last evening sustained the high standard of technique set by the Ulster County Theatre Association and the play was a good medium for the expression of some of the able talent in the association.

To Ann Herzog and William Scheniman go the highest honors. They were of equal excellence. Miss Herzog, as the crochety old woman had a difficult role to assume and she never once stepped out of character, her high pitched, shaky voice and facial expressions enriching the portrayal. Her dramatic scene of fright was superb. It is gratifying to all playgoers to welcome Miss Herzog back to the Kingston footlights. William Scheniman also had a difficult role and he played it with abandon and unaffectedness. Ethel Moncre, who played opposite Mr. Scheniman had a simple role which did not call for as heavy acting but which was taken well. To say that these three dominated the performance does not detract from the able support they received from the others of the cast that appeared at home on the stage.

Helen Schoonmaker, the quick-tempered servant, drew many laughs from the audience. Others supporting were Peter Minasian, Florence Ketsch, Isabelle Byrne and Karl Limbacher.

The play was a triumph for the closing season, both for the director and the theatre association. Only a few promptings were audible to the audience which numbered around 300. One interior set was used, giving shorter periods between scenes and lighting effects created the atmosphere for the tense scenes.

Poor Table Manners
A Barrier to Friends

Errors Lower Your Rating

A self-made, promising young executive is Bill Jones. But he's forgotten to make over his table manners!

What will his charming dinner companion think when he unfurls his napkin, shakes it out under the eyes of amused diners? He'll probably take soup from the tip of his spoon, too—butter a whole slice of bread at once. You'll never make the grade with smart people, Bill, unless you check up on your manners. Correct, you'll find, to lay your napkin across your lap partly folded, use one corner when you must wipe your mouth. You take soup from the side of your spoon and bread you break off and butter in small pieces as you need it.

Unusual foods? No awkward moments with avocado halves served in the rind when you know it's correct to eat them with a spoon. In public, eat broiled lobster—even the claws—with an oyster fork rather than fingers.

A pity to let etiquette slips stand in your way. Find out from our 32-page booklet what silver to use, how to eat unusual foods. Gives etiquette for teas, buffet suppers, restaurants—etiquette for formal dinners.

House Committee Will Tell Public Anti-Jewish Plot

Washington, May 19 (AP)—The House committee on un-American activities, confronted with testimony which fantastically linked an anti-Semitic campaign to fears of revolution, set out today to uncover the whole story and tell it to the public.

It issued subpoenas for George Van Horn Moseley, retired major general, and three others mentioned in secret testimony yesterday, and ordered agents to hunt for a mysterious waiter who witnesses have said circulated "inside" information he overheard in an exclusive New York club.

The subpoenas, directing appearance before the committee Monday, went also to John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, George Deatherage of St. Albans, Vt., chief of the White Knights of the Camellia; and Felix McWhirter, Indianapolis banker.

The committee agreed to issue the subpoenas after deliberating 25 minutes in executive session.

"How many more will be issued no one knows," Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) said.

The committee will meet again Monday, in open session, he said, after its staff had an opportunity to scrutinize yesterday's testimony.

Hamilton's name was brought up in testimony that he had, on request, supplied a list of the party's national committeemen to a man identified as active in the anti-Jewish campaign.

The Republican leader said he would be "very happy to appear," that his office supplied the list as a matter of routine. Saying that there was nothing in the requesting letter which indicated any anti-Semitic activity, he added: "If there had been, there would have been no correspondence on my part."

No witnesses were summoned before the committee at the morning meeting, but James Erwin Campbell, 42-year-old reserve army captain, at Owensboro, Ky., was on hand for questioning if needed.

Dies has told newsmen that Campbell had testified he sent certain "secret" reports to 40 persons.

Committee investigators said Campbell also had sent copies of speeches by Moseley to a mailing list of about 200.

Church Holds Its Installation Rite

he said, "and I know that this means a real spiritual uplift in your membership and the upbuilding of your church."

Reading from the first epistle of Peter he said that the word written by Peter so long ago was just as true and appropriate today as it was then, and he urged the congregation to live up to its responsibilities and to continue the splendid record it had established in the past.

During the services the church quartet and chorus choir rendered a special musical program under the direction of Mrs. Harry G. Smith, organist and choir director, while Mrs. Ethel Wood, soprano soloist, sang a solo.

The New Pastor

The Rev. Mr. Doherty came to the Roundout Church from Milford, N. J., where he had served the Presbyterian Church there as pastor for 14 years.

After completing a full Presbyterian college and seminary course in Ohio, and a postgraduate course in Princeton University, the Rev. Mr. Doherty was pastor of the Beemerville Presbyterian Church, and later served the Oxford Presbyterian Church in New Jersey until called to the pastorate of the Milford Presbyterian Church.

During the years he resided in Milford he was active in both the religious and civic life of that city, serving as a member of the Board of Education. He also was active in foreign missions, serving on the Presbyterian committee of foreign missions while a member of the New Brunswick Presbytery, which he represented as a commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in 1932.

The Rev. Mr. Doherty is a member of the Eastern, Pa., Philadelphia Society and served as secretary of the Delaware Valley Stamp Club. His wife while in Milford was also very active in church work and is a graduate of the Girls' Normal School in Philadelphia.

106th Anniversary

With the installation of the Rev. Mr. Doherty as pastor, the Roundout Presbyterian Church, which this year is observing its 106th anniversary has been served by fourteen pastors.

The church was organized on November 1, 1833, and the cornerstone of the present church was laid on June 4, 1873.

When the church was first organized over a century ago it numbered 16 in its membership. Previous to the organization of the church, Walter B. Crane and George W. Endicott held a consultation the outcome of which was the formation of the first Sunday School in Roundout. From that beginning the Roundout Presbyterian Church came into existence a few years later.

The first church services were held in a school house, and at a meeting there on July 9, 1833, Maurice Wurtz, Abram Hasbrouck, John Ferguson, George W. Endicott, Edwin H. Bolton, Alexander Snyder and Walter B. Crane, were appointed to act as trustees and a building committee for the proposed new church.

On August 13, 1833, articles of agreement were made between the committee and Paul Brooks for the erection of a suitable building for the Presbyterian Church to be 56 feet long and 40 feet wide with a seating capacity of about three hundred. Work was begun at once on the site now occupied by Temple Emanuel on Abel street and on October 8, of that year the cornerstone was laid.

First Church Cost $5,000

On June 19, 1834, the edifice was dedicated. The cost of the building without the tower, which was added later, was $5,000. In 1883 the edifice was enlarged and improved at a cost of $3,000.

For forty years services were held in the church, and as the congregation grew in numbers the decision was finally reached to erect a larger church and a building committee was appointed consisting of Edward Tompkins, David B. Abbey, Charles Bray, Walter B. Crane, Abel A. Crosby, Roland Otis, James McCausland and the Rev. Edward D. Ledyard, the pastor.

Present Church Cost $51,280

Lawrence B. Valk of New York city, was the architect of the proposed church and the contract to erect it was awarded to Henry W. Otis, mason, and Henry W. Palen, carpenter, both of this city. The estimated cost of the building was $44,000, but the actual cost, owing to some changes in the plan, was $51,280.

Cornerstone Laid

The cornerstone of the church was laid with impressive ceremonies on June 4, 1873.

On Sunday, June 3, 1923, the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the church was celebrated and the pastor, the late Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, preached an eloquent sermon on "The Corner Stone."

Henry W. Otis, the contractor who erected the present church, was present at the services together with 10 others who were present at the cornerstone laying.

Former Pastors of Church

The former pastors of the church and the years they served are:

John Mason	1833-35
William Reilly	1836-39

John H. Carle	1842-47

Celebrated Anniversary

Centennial historical services of the church were held on Sunday, November 12, 1933, with the late Rev. Dr. Ellis and the pastor, the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., preaching.

On Tuesday evening, November 14, 1933, the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the church was held with sermon by the Rev. Dr. John McDowell, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and an address by the Rev. Samuel Banks Nelson, pastor of the church in 1900.

region. Publicity given through the Ulster County Day at the fair will make known to sailors enroute to or from the fair that Ulster county is a good place to visit and also a resort center where all year sports are to be found.

To Erect Signs

In connection with the publicizing of the county the Publicity Committee will have erected at the entrances to the county large signs acquainting travelers of the fact that they are entering the county, that it is a recreational center for year-round entertainment and that Kingston was the first capital of the state of New York. This and other historical facts will be made known to the travelers by means of signs.

Poster advertising of the desirability of paying the county a visit will be distributed by the committee and efforts will be made to make known the fact that Ulster county is a good place to pay a short visit, a long visit at any season of the year or to take up a permanent residence. Fold-ers will be distributed through travel agencies, hotels, bus lines and gas stations calling attention of the traveling public to the county's advantages.

In connection with the distribution of this publicity the finance committee will play an important part. The recently formed Ulster County Council, a cooperative organization formed in the county to publicize and promote the county's advantages, will offer memberships in the council. These memberships will be sold to individuals or as associate membership for the sum of $2 which will include a combination membership in the Council and one admission to the World's Fair which will be good on June 26 or any day thereafter. A button showing that the subscriber is a member of the council will also be provided.

Funds raised by the memberships will be used to promote Ulster county as a recreation center and to carry out the work of publicizing the county as a year-round sports center.

In addition to the $2 individual memberships a campaign will shortly be started to secure active or business memberships which will be sold for $5 or more. These memberships will be in the nature of a contribution but will include the admission to the World's Fair on Ulster County Day, June 26, or may be used at any future date. Included will be an official membership button.

widow, Mrs. Emily Hagemeyer of 815 Ritter Place, New York, as a life estate. It will eventually pass to five children and two grandchildren. Mr. Hagemeyer, who was 74 years of age, started with the piano company in 1893 as a general office clerk. Since 1921 he had been its treasurer.

A New York state Grange recently celebrating its 65th anniversary has one charter member living.

Independents Trim Grunies; Boxing Bouts Resumed Tonight

Dawkinsmen Bomb 3 Baker Pitchers For Twelve Hits

Stumpf, 1st Batter, Greets Dlouhy With Triple—Sleight, Strubel Take Mound

The Kingston Independents, unleashing a 12-hit barrage on three Grunewald hurlers, won 10-5 in last night's City League feature. Bombing Dlouhy, St. Remy southpaw, to cover in the first inning and racking Sleight and Strubel, the Dawkinsmen chalked up their third straight victory.

Addie Stumpf greeted Dlouhy with a ringing three-bagger to right, ambling home as Kelly muffed Lamb's relay. McLean slashed a double and tallied as Lamb juggled Bock's shot. Tommy Maines prodded a tremendous triple to deep center and counted when "Big Boy" Rider whipped a double to polish off Dlouhy. Sleight came in and stymied the Independents' "Big Bertha."

Walks to Knight and Dykes and Van Etten's single went awry when Knight was picked off trying to tally, Smedes, Minasian to Kelly, on Bink's base knock. The Independents pushed over three more in the fourth on McLean's and Rider's singles, Maines' long loft which Kelder muffed and Knight's prodigious three-bagger.

Grunies Tally 4 Runs

Bush weakened in the fifth and the Grunies shoved across four markers. Minasian got a life when Van Etten muffed McLean's toss which coupled with Strubel's pass and Lamb's safely netted two tallies. Bill Hanley boomed a lashing liner to deep left for another triple and scored on Purvis one base punch for four markers. The Bakerboys added another in the sixth when Smedes lashed another triple and came home on Minasian's loft to Maines in deep left center.

Dlouhy Battered

Johnny Weiss' St. Remy importation, Dlouhy, fell victim to a vicious first round base-hit assault and was rocked from the Grunies' mound on five successive base knocks. Sleight was rocked heartily during his four-inning stay but Strubel escaped being scored on. Bob Bush, Dawkins' ace, pitched another well-hurled performance, issuing six hits during the late innings and being in command of the situation at all times.

Rider, Stumpf and McLean paced the Independents' Powerhouse with twin safeties apiece as every business boy figured in the hit column. Lamb, Hanley and Smedes led the Bakerboys' base-hit parade.

Bleacher Blarney

Bing Van Etten came up with a sensational twisting pluck of Purvis' tricky looper behind first for the game's fielding highlight.

Gene "Big Boy" Rider looked like a runaway tractor when he played into the third base bleachers in a mad dash to snare Minasian's foul fly. The Independents' "One-Man Gang," all in all, put on quite a show for the bleachers last night.

Hanley snared Knight's long slice to left with a desperate backhand stab while reeling backwards in the 6th.

The wolves howled when Vince Smedes put up a squawk to ump

RED was his face as well as his name when Russell "Red" Evans (right), rookie now with the Dodgers by way of New Orleans, regally overlooked Pepper Martin who stole home to give the Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the Brooklynites.

Tommy Dunaher, the pro at Wilwyck Golf Club, looks for a big opening day Sunday in that tournament with Windham. . . . Lets hope for a nice sunny setting. . . . Wonder if Dwight McEntee, Jr., has been doing any practicing on his "boomarang" ball. . . . We'll have to ask Harry Hutton. . . . That note on Big Joe Mahar last night should have been three wild pitches instead of three hit batsmen. . . . Okay Joe! . . . Softball players are complaining about the diamond at Block No. 2. . . . They think it should be put into the same condition as the other fields. . . . And the rest of them are in what the boys term excellent shape. . . . Those who saw Columbia-Frederick via television say they'll take a seat in the right field bleachers. . . . Jack Dawkins' Independents strengthened their hold on first place in the City League last night. . . . Looks like Jackie knows how to pick 'em.

Time Trials for Racers Tomorrow At Indianapolis

Indianapolis, May 19 (AP)—A score of "young men in a hurry" stepped forward today with a "we are ready" as the roll was called.

Dick Duhn and followed up with another impassioned plea to base arbiter Murphy. Looks like the wolves are slowly rounding into form judging from Smedes' reception.

Gil Kelder better take that sponge out of his laundry snare. The Rosendale wild-horse can't seem to make that onion stick in that leather basket, anymore.

Bock and McLean collaborated to reel off a slick twin-killing on Pepper's roller in the 5th. Just like Crosely and Gordon!

of drivers who plan to bid tomorrow for places in the annual Indianapolis Memorial Day 500 mile motor speedway race.

Four or five others said, "we think we'll be ready."

From 10 a. m. until 7 p. m. (central standard time) tomorrow the drivers will have a chance to win positions in the 33-car starting lineup.

Almost everyone at the track figures it will take about 130 miles an hour even to get in the race. If more than 33 qualify the fastest 33 will start.

Practice laps during the last weeks have been at such high speed the drivers are unanimous in their predictions new qualifying records will be set.

The official one-lap record is 130 1/2 miles an hour, set by Jimmy Snyder of Chicago two years ago. The qualifying record is 125.769 miles an hour, established by Ronney Householder of Van Nuys, Calif., last year.

Seven drivers were listed today as the probable contenders for the pole. They are Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif.; Babe Stapp, Bob Swanson and Kelly Pettito, all of Los Angeles; Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis; Ted Horn of Burbank, Calif.; and Snyder.

Additional trials will be held Sunday and others next week.

Wiltwyck Golfers Play Windham in 1st Match Sunday

Tommy Danaher, the pro at Wiltwyck golf links, today came through with the first announcement about the tournament for the summer. The first match at the Windham avenue greens will be Sunday with Windham.

Other home and home matches in the summer series, according to Danaher, will be with Catskill, Fairville, Ellenville, Red Hook and Williamstown, Mass., his former home town.

Sunday's match at Windham will start at 10.30, and should last the greater part of the day with 25 (or 30) golfers competing for honors. "There seems to be a lot of enthusiasm," Danaher said, "and I think this opener should start off right for the summer."

He also reported a host of new members in Wiltwyck for this season, and said he expected a crowd of players and spectators for Sunday's play. "We are anxious for our new members to turn out and take part in the matches," Tommy added.

There will be plenty of matches this summer between the Wiltwyck players, Dr. Tongue, tournament chairman, has announced.

Glens Falls Club Plays Colonials This Evening At the Athletic Field

This evening the Kingston Colonials will make their second bid for victory in the State Baseball League, playing against the club from Glens Falls. Starting time of the encounter is 6 o'clock.

Charlie Neff, Stone Ridge school teacher, will start on the mound for Kingston, Manager Fred Davi said, predicting that the flinger from the Ridge should give the upstaters plenty to swing at.

"We need this win," Davi went on, "and I think Neff will bring us through provided he gets the sort of support that encourages a pitcher."

Davi counts on winning this evening, then heading his club for Sunday's game at the Athletic Field against the leaguers from Bennington, Vt.

In their first game here, the Colonials bowed to the Mohawk Giants, 8-5, but really should have won. Two errors, by Frank Neff and Charlie Husta in the pinches blew the decision, which would have gone down as a victory for Toddy Uhl only for the muscues.

Uhl looked impressive on the mound, despite the upset, and, in fact, the whole club gave the impression that with a few more games to warm them up, things would be different.

With Charlie Francello back at second this evening, and Bill Thomas, who replaced him against the Giants, back in the outer garden with Tommy Maines and Mac Tiano, the Colonials' chances should be better.

This is the way the Colonials are expected to line up against the Glens Falls nine:

Jack Schatzel, Charlie Francello, Carlo Husta and Bill Finger in the infield.

Tommy Maines, Mack Tiano and Bill Thomas in the outer garden.

Joe Hoffman or "Gabby" Benjamin will catch, with Neff doing the pitching.

Besides turning in a stellar performance out in the field against the Mohawks, Mac Tiano came to the rescue of the Davemen with a homer and triple, proving that the Colonials have hitting power which they really need in the state loop.

A crowd is expected for the skirmish with Glens Falls, which will start promptly at 6 o'clock.

Those attending the game are asked to observe the field rules of remaining back of the base-paths to avoid trouble for the players and to protect themselves against injury from hard hit balls.

Softball Notes

Federation League

A. Foster Winfield, secretary of the Board of Public Works, is the first "casualty" of the present season in the Men's Club Federation Softball League. A. Foster was so roughly treated in several matches Thursday evening while endeavoring to gather in the elusive horse-hide that he suffered a broken thumb, a cut on the face and numerous other "minor" injuries and today he is threatening to "quit" and let the "young fellows" play that strenuous game. Scores: Presbyterians 5, Fort Ewen 4; Hurley 7, Trinity M. E. 5; Redeemers 5, Albany Avenue Baptists 4. Scheduled tonight: Fair Street vs. Ulster Park at Hasbrouck Park; Hurley vs. Redeemers at armory, St. James-Comforter game off.

Centrals Victors

Last night at Block Park No. 2, the Central Hudson softballers scored a 14-3 victory over the Country Club Frocks. Pennington, Strong and Craw made up the Centrals' battery and Hotaling and Greenberg for the Frocks.

Catholic Games

The regular schedule of Catholic League softball games, as published this week, will be played this evening. Members of St. Joseph's team are to meet at the school at 6:15 to make the trip to East Kingston. Those having cars are requested to bring them for transportation.

City League

Apollon Wins

At lower Hasbrouck Park last night, the Apollon defeated Canfields, 10-5. Each club made 11 hits, Timmie of the plumbiers clouting a triple with the bases loaded. Batteries: Peterson and Coutant for Apollon; Rice and Rowe for Canfields.

Hercules, 15; N. Y. A. C., 3

Thursday night at Loughran Park the Hercules softballers trounced the N. Y. A. C. by the score of 15-3.

Hertica showed splendid form

Will They Repeat?

Poughkeepsie champion, Navy's crew lost to Cornell this season, but Navy lost to Harvard in 1938 and was good enough to win at Poughkeepsie. Will history repeat? Back row: Lucian Peters, Coxswain Hancock, Walker. Middle row: Kinney, Spear. Front: House, Almgren, Captain Kittler. Right, Coach Buck Walsh.

K.H.S. Trackmen to Compete In Hudson Saturday Afternoon

Kingston High School's track squad will attempt to make it three in a row tomorrow afternoon when Coaches G. Warren Kias and Loyne Connick take their club up to Hudson. The club will leave the high school at 12 o'clock sharp.

So far this year the Kias-Connick forces have ridden teams from Middletown and Poughkeepsie and with a bit of extra work should take Hudson in stride. Last week Hudson was shelled all over the track by a superior aggregation from Albany's Peter Schuyler School.

Jess Shultis, Johnny Ennis, Ken Douglas, Milt Tetsera and a host of other veterans are looking forward to some new highs tomorrow. Since the Poughkeepsie clash the two mentors have been working their charges to get them in the best possible physical shape.

The following is the complete squad which will make the trip tomorrow:

100-yard dash, Tucker, Terwilliger, Nussbaum and Dodd.

220-yard dash, Tucker, Fallon, Saehloff and Chris Perry.

440-yard dash, Bill Cole, Johnny Ennis, Cully and Kippy Parslow.

One-half mile, Joe Beirach, Waltman, Rice and Bowers.

One mile, Jess Shultis, Joe Toney, Mike Spada and Babe Markle.

Pole vault, Milt Tetsera, Mel Samuels and Bill Ferguson.

Indictment Held
For Monday Court

One of the open indictments, that charging Andrew Johnson,
Jr., with burglary, third degree, was held until Monday in Supreme Court Thursday afternoon following the report of the grand jury and the arraignment of defendants before Justice Foster.

Johnson pleading not guilty to a burglary charge arising out of an affair at the Paul Eng property on Washington avenue last February, Chris J. Flanagan asked that the case be held until Monday.
All other cases were referred to county court.

Napoleon Bonaparte charged with possession of policy slips on May 11, 1939, pleaded not guilty and his bail was continued. His case was the only sealed bill which was opened and arraignment made. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for the man with the distinguished name.

Sixteen of the 17 sealed bills were transferred to county court.
No bills were found in the cases of Thomas Kelly, held on a burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry charge. Bail was exonerated. Joseph Tarantini who was held under a grand larceny charge also had his bail discharged when no bill was returned.

During the year 1938 more than 1000 joint Church-Grange services were held in the United States, drawing an immense audience, chiefly of rural people; and an even greater number of such services are planned for 1939.

Shots Through Apron End
Attempt of Negro Robber

New York, May 19 (AP).—Last Thanksgiving Day, Samuel Giblan, 37-year-old delicatessen operator, was held up and robbed.

He bought a revolver and carried it under his apron.

Last night, a negro strode into the store, leveled a gun and ordered Giblan and his 16-year-old daughter Phyllis to the rear of the place.

"Have you got anything on you?" demanded the negro.

"Yes," said Giblan. His hand moved under his apron. Four shots sounded, and the robber fell dead.
